The People of Glengarry:
Highlanders in Transition, 1745-1820
by Marianne McLean
McGill-Queen's University Press, $34.95

Reviewed by BRIAN OSBORNE

THE FOCUS OF this study about emigration and emigrants is upon a very distinctive group, the Scottish Highlanders of Glengarry County, Ontario. But the book is more than that: its more general insight is into the varieties of departure, migration, arrival and settlement that have been experienced by so many newcomers to North America. The People of Glengarry is about the influence of cultural origins, cultural transfer and cultural survival in the building of Canada.

The Glengarry Scots came primarily from the Highland districts of Lochiel, Glengarry, Knoydart and Glenelg in western Inverness-shire. This region lies in the heart of the "Gaidhealtachd," the Gaelic-speaking part of Scotland. In the 18th century it was one of the most rugged, isolated and lawless parts of the Highlands. The social order was dominated by the structures and values of the clan; the economy depended upon a marginal agriculture based on crops and cattle; and the traditional culture was expressed by the idioms of an aristocratic fraternity of bards that celebrated their land, their religion and their history.

This traditional and patriarchal Highland society was traumatically transformed in the second half of the 18th century. It was savagely suppressed following the final defeat of the Jacobite cause in 1745. It was eroded by the subsequent penetration of commercial agriculture as Scotland was incorporated into the political-economy of England. Finally, it was bled by successive emigrations to North America.

In interpreting these three processes, Ms. McLean sets out to challenge certain myths about the Highlands and emigration. While she accepts that the notorious "clearances" and sheep-farming contributed to depopulation and emigration, she disagrees that these were forced migrations. She also challenges the romantic view that the exodus was prompted by a cultural conservatism and resistance to the new social order that evolved after 1745.

Rather, she argues that the Highland diaspora was a free migration spurred by economically rational evaluations of opportunities elsewhere. For her, the primary goal of most migrants was the "safe tenure of a farm in a Gaelic community" — wherever that might be. Both land and the opportunity for unfettered cultural continuity were offered by migration to North America.

But if the Highlanders were impelled to move by economic independence and the search for prosperity, their cohesion was ensured by their past commitment to a common political cause, and by a common social origin in the tenant and gentlemen classes of Highland society. Indeed, the Glengarry Highlanders were a remarkably homogeneous community sharing the same language, culture, social origins and community links forged in the glens of western Inverness.

As Ms. McLean points out, the success of the nine waves of migration between 1773 and 1815 may be attributed to four factors: they migrated as communities rather than as individuals; many of the emigrants had resources from the sale of their properties; they benefitted from the effective leadership of the elite of the Highland society; and on arrival they were supported by colonial officialdom.

That their move was successful was clearly shown by the extent to which they became the dominant element in the demography, landscape and ethos of Glengarry. Between 1773 and 1815, some 3,300 Highlanders had come to the Glengarry district. By 1852, the population there had increased to 17,596 persons, of whom no fewer than 75 per cent were Highlanders or their descendants. Further, some 3,000 persons were McDonalds or Macdonells, another 1500 were either McLeods, Grants or Camerons, and, in all, 45 per cent of the population bore one of 15 Highland names. It was no wonder that a 19th-century guide warned prospective settlers, "Go not to Glengarry, if you be not a Highlander."

One enigma not addressed here continues to bother me: the Highlanders' apparent slavish support of British monarchy and Empire. As Ms. McLean puts it, the "traditional characteristics of a Highland community — loyalty, defense of local interests, and conservatism — were notable in the history of Glengarry County and of Upper Canada too." But why, given the defeat of the Jacobite cause at the hands of the English, did the Highland clansmen show "a clear preference for emigrating within the British Empire"? And, given the experience of Culloden, how did they manage the ideological shift from being rebels against the House of Hanover in England to being Loyalist defenders of it in America?

"Go not to Glengarry...."

Perhaps the answers are to be found in their religion, desire for land and that profound attachment to their own aristocratic structures. And then again, perhaps the Hanovarians, like bag-pipes, are best appreciated from a distance — and 4,000 miles across the North Atlantic was the right distance.

Scots can get cloyingly sentimental about their lochs and glens, tartan and heather. Indeed, my credibility was tested by the description of "stone-coveted fields seemingly beloved by Highland farmers everywhere." But this is no celebration of cultivated mythologies. Rather, it is a well-written chronicle of the Glengarry experience, as moving in its documentation of the immigration experience as it is provocative in its interpretation of the migration process.

I commend Marianne McLean's study to aficionados of Scottish myths and realities. More importantly, her book also makes an important statement about immigration and the role of cultural fragments in the amalgam of several distinctive identities that is perhaps the central ethos of modern Canada. The Glengarry Scots constitute a mere drop in the tremendous trans-Atlantic migration stream, but it may also be argued that there are more general insights here into the experience of other emigrants during the study period.

By understanding and admiring the pride and cultural tenacity of the Glengarry Scottish-Canadians, perhaps we will come to better appreciate the pride in their origins of other, more recent, "New Canadians." I think Marianne McLean would agree. □

Dear Doug:

This letter has been a long time in the composition. Although there are still a lot of things hanging fire I must get some report off to you now.

What a pleasure it was to meet you that day in September. Needless to say I felt a real rapport with you as if we were old friends! I don't often get to meet those for whom I search out their old family ties - so it was an added pleasure for me.

Although I have pored over a lot of records in the last weeks I have not established the relationship between John Grant of Pittsburgh and your James Grant of Portland. The two most important of these records are firstly, the will of John Grant of Pittsburgh and secondly, the petition that James, son of the aforementioned John, made to the Executive Council for a free grant of land as the son of a Loyalist. Some time ago I sent for the index to the Upper Canada Land Petitions in order to locate the exact microfilm containing the petition but I have not yet received this on inter-library loan. This is a lengthy procedure but may establish that at the time of the petition this James was in Portland and therefore, undoubtedly your James.

As to the will of John Grant of Pittsburgh I have not been at all successful, but have yet one source to search. The following publications were examined:

1. Court of Probate: Registers and Estate Files at the Archives of Ontario (1793-1859) edited by Bill Zuefelt 1986

GRANT, John	Lachine, QUE	esquire	19/2/18
GRANT, William Alex	Pittsburgh Twp	gentleman	1824

2. Abstracts of Surrogate Court Wills, Kingston and Vicinity, 1790-1858 Compiled by Loral and Mildred Wanamaker 1982

NIL for John Grant

3. Index to Wills Probated Frontenac County, Ontario, Canada, 1857-1973 Kingston Branch, Ontario Genealogical Society 1988

NIL for James Grant

4. Surrogate Court Index of Ontario, Canada, 1859-1900 Vol. 9, Lennox and Addington County compiled by June Gibson 1988

NIL for James Grant

I visited the Frontenac County Land Registry Office in Kingston on September 10th in hopes of finding a will for John Grant of Pittsburgh Twp in their index to wills. Unfortunately there was none for him but there were ones for John Grant of Lachine and Dr. John Grant of Napanee. I made copies of both of these. That for John of Lachine was only a memorial of a will and detailed the land that he held in Pittsburgh Township. If the need should arise a copy of the will itself of John of Lachine can be obtained from the Archives of Ontario in Toronto. I thought you might be interested in the will of Dr. John. He must have had some property in Frontenac County to have had his will registered in this office. It must also have been registered in Lennox & Addington County for I assume that he owned the house in Napanee at the time of his death.

To complete my search for the will of John Grant of Pittsburgh the Land Registration records for the lots on the East Side of the Cataraqui River (EGCR LL19 & 20) held by him, should be reviewed. Since we cannot locate a will for him we must conclude that he disposed of all his possessions in his lifetime and the record of the disposal of his land may well give us clues about his son James. The fees at the Registry Office itself have become so exorbitant that it is much preferable to conduct one's search at Queen's University Archives which is the repository now for the old copy books of the land registrations for this area of Ontario. I will spend a day at Queen's Archives next week with the hopes of some results at last.

I am enclosing xerox copies of some of the relevant pages from "Lilacs and Limestone", the history of Pittsburgh Township By William J. Patterson. I have underlined the records for the two John Grants in Pittsburgh. I believe it is safe to conclude that our John Grant held EGCR LL19 & 20 in Pittsburgh Township (St. Mark's Anglican Church on the northern edge of Barriefield village is located on this lot now) and that this land was granted from the Crown in 1789 to him as a Loyalist. I spoke to Bill Patterson about the two John Grants in early Pittsburgh - he immediately knew of whom I spoke! He said that he had had to arbitrarily decide which land belonged to which man. Bill also said that John of the King's Rangers held a town lot in Barriefield village and that he seems to have disappeared from the area by 1830.

I visited the Lennox & Addington County Museum in Napanee again and scanned the Newburgh newspaper, The North American published in Newburgh, Canada West for the period covering the death of James Grant - Wednesday, October 22, 1862 until December 24, 1862. Unfortunately there was no obituary nor even a death notice for James nor for any other of the inhabitants. There was almost no local news at all. It wasn't until one got further into the last part of that century that any of the newspapers carried such items - nevertheless I was still hopeful! The Napanee Standard was being published at this date but no copies after 26 June were there for that year.

My oldest grandson and I located the Grant plot in Newburgh cemetery and had a most enjoyable time chalking the stone so that it would be visible in the snapshots that I took of the grave site. I am enclosing those pictures in this letter. As you will see there was an inscription for a child on one side of the Grant stone that was not recorded in the cemetery transcription that I sent you. Perhaps Stanley was the 13th child as noted in the obituary of Dr. John, and Eliza's last child - this would have made her 46 years of age at his birth. As you will also see, James was not noted as M.D.! What a beautiful plot and the iron fence surrounding it was truly a work of art as you can see. My grandson, Ivan was the one who spotted the name of John Grant and date of 1870 (which does not show in the picture) on the gate of the fence. Unfortunately it has been hooked back so it is not visible from outside the plot. The adjoining plot towards the back of the Grant stone, has the same fence and the gate also has the plot holder's name, one James S. Paul 1872.

I have spent some time at the Anglican Diocesan Archives in Kingston and will send the results on to you when I complete my search there next week. Unfortunately the archives is only open on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and with my work at the L.D.S. Family History Centre on Thursdays I find just a few hours a week not much time to search the records. They do have an index made of St. George's Church records up until about 1830 which was certainly helpful. I did not locate either the marriage of James and Eliza there nor the baptism of any of their first children which would have included that of your grandfather, James. In all probability they were married in Eliza's church and the children may have been baptised there, too - that is if they were Anglicans at the time. I strongly suspect that they had already embraced the Methodist religion as had so many in that day. This area was truly a stronghold for them at that time. I did look at and copy the baptisms of the children of James and Frances Grant showing the sponsors and the burial of Francis (Francis) Grant in 1821 aged 50 years. I will send them on as soon as I have them in order. There was NO burial for John Grant within this time frame. Perhaps he lived beyond 1830 and may yet be in St. George's records although this would make him of a venerable age since he was aged 32 years in the muster of 1783 of the King's Rangers (SEE enclosure from the Rolls of the Provincial Corps that I sent you in my last letter). On the other hand he may well have died in some other place than Pittsburgh or Kingston. Very possible when one considers that after the death of his wife he

Dear Doug:

I ended my last letter to you with the words that spring was surely on its way - well, I was very far wrong. What a spring we've had so far and it doesn't really seem that it has arrived even yet!

I'm sorry to be so long in sending more research material off to you but I have been under the weather for some time now with several medical problems both of which necessitated that I be quiet and off my feet. It is surely miserable to have to slow down to this pace. However, I do see light at the end of the tunnel now.

The enclosures in this letter are the census records for the years 1851-52, 1861 and 1871 for James and Eliza Grant and Dr. John and those of his sisters that were with him in Newburgh. I did not go beyond 1871 in reading the census although they are available for two decades following this date. It was interesting to find the death of Eliza in the Newburgh Death Schedule. I had hoped to find an entry for the death of Stanley Grant (as noted on tombstone in Newburgh Cemetery) in the Death Schedule for Portland Township 1851 but unfortunately only part of this census has survived and the death schedule was not there. I presume that this is where he died.

Now, some comments on the various census entries:

1851/52 Portland - The abbreviations are : Column of S.M.W.=Single, married or widowed; C.W.=Canada West; W.M.=Wesleyan Methodist; F=Farmer; Fr 1=Frame house, 1 story in height; Info Sources - 61-9= 1861 Census, page 9; BT 1858= Ontario Land Registry Index - Date of Purchase(James purchased land in 1858 from the Ontario government). The location of James is Con 5, Lot 7 which is now part of Harrowsmith and I believe even in that day was a small lot in the village although it was not incorporated as a village until later. Finding one Frances Grant, single, aged 46 living with James and Eliza Grant is the single most important item that I have uncovered in our search to date even though it is circumstantial evidence only. I believe that this Frances is the spinster sister of James and this information ties them firmly to the family of John Grant of Pittsburgh. Frances is such an unusual name in that time period that I am confident that the above is true and she was living with her brother and his wife at the time of the federal census in 1851.

1861 Portland - This transcript lists in James and Eliza's house one Miamen Grant aged 55 years. On my next visit to the Kingston Public Library I will check the original microfilm of this census for this may be an incorrect reading for Frances who was noted previously in 1851 census. It is hard to determine exactly who the children with initials are - obviously the person who made the transcripts did not correctly interpret them, at least not the same way that Russ Waller did in the 1851 census. Can you decide who they are from their ages? Also listed in this census are James and Eliza's son, James and his wife Mary Jane with their first-born, Melissa and Barnabus; but who are the William and Jane living with them? Perhaps this William is brother of James and son of James and Eliza or is he a son of Jane - aged 52, a married woman in the same household. She may well be a sister-in-law of James, Sr and the wife of his brother, Peter! I also think that the John listed under James and Eliza's family may well belong to this Jane and be a brother of William! A puzzle! While at the Library I will have a look for these Grant children listed only with initials in both the 1851 and 1861 census.

1861 Newburgh Village - Here I believe are some of the children of Ann and Edward Jones, she believed to be the daughter of our John Grant of Pittsburgh Township. It certainly looks as if the Edward Jones here is the son of Ann and Edward for he is about the same age as the child baptised at St. George's Church, Kingston. Who the two John Jones are I do not know. The above Edward had a sibling named John Grant Jones but he was almost 8 years older than Edward whereas these two Johns are 1 year older and 7 years younger respectively. The interesting part of these entries are the ones for Frances Grant aged 59 years and John Grant aged 26 years. I believe this is Frances sister of James Grant, Sr who may also have been enumerated with her brother James in Portland(see paragraph above); and John the son of James, Sr and later Dr. John.

1871 Newburgh Village - Here we have Dr. John with his three sisters Eliza, Fanny and Emma and in the same household his other sister Isabella and her husband John Shorey.

1871 Loughborough - James and Mary Jane (Purdy) and their family consisting of Malissa, Barnabus, Hester, Frederick and Frank (Frances?).

Since this is all the census that I viewed I will end this letter now. I have quite a few odd items to send on to you in the next letter.

I have not yet received from the Archives of Canada the microfilm dealing with the Upper Canada Land Petitions of John Grant of Pittsburgh and his son James. Ever since the strike of the Civil Service Union last August and September things in the Inter-Library Loan Service have been very slow and in some cases have come to a halt. I anticipate that any day now I will get a call from the librarian informing me that the film has finally arrived.

Now to tally up - I have spent the following hours of search time:

Searching at Diocesan Archives of - 4 1/4 hours
Anglican Church of Canada in Kingston

Searching at Queen's University Archives - 3 3/4 hours

Searching through Census Records - 1 1/4 hours

Total hours of searching - 9 1/4 hours

Therefore, the cost of the search covering the period of 24 January, 29 February and 23 April is 9 1/4 hours @ $5.00 = $46.25.

Hope all is well with you.

Sincerely,

P.S. There is an index - head of household and strays (their name varies from the head of household) -for 1871 Census of Frontenac and Lennox & Addington Counties. No Frances Grant is listed as a stray as she would have been in 1861 Census of Newburgh when living with the John Jones boys. She is not listed as living with either of her nephews, James or Dr. John, per the enclosed census records, so I assume that she died in the period 1861-1871.

There is in print a very comprehensive soft-cover book (with a wealth of reproductions in black and white) the "Camden History" 1800 to 1968 unfortunately not indexed (but one could index one's own). Looking it over I saw that the Orange Lodge (1855 to 1873) listed as members these Williams - James Williams - Samuel - Ira - John - Jacob - Peter - David - Edwing and James Tallon (His wife was a Catherine M. Williams 1842-1876). Perhaps you have this book or could look for one at your library.

The 1892 Census for Richmond Twp. listed an Oscar Williams with address at Newburg., F (freeholder) Con. 3 Lot 22. Sometime in the 1900's This Oscar moved into North Fred. and bought a farm bordering on Hay Bay. I came to Napanee in 1917 and the Oscar Williams were here before me. His wife was born Stella Clancy and they had 2 young people, Blanche and Percy Williams and in 1917 they were both a bit older than I. Blanche W. (quite beautiful and talented (music) married a farmer Karl Sexsmith and they had 3 boys and one daughter Fay who passed away about two years ago. Blanche has gone too. Her brother Percy W. married and they had 2 boys but for some reason Percy disappeared. The sons are now middle-aged and have

Dear Doug:

I began my research on the Grant family at our Kingston Branch, Ontario Genealogical Society Library at the Kingston Public Library in Kingston, Ontario. Unfortunately there was no Grant Genealogy nor were there any of your family on the various Pedigree charts in our library. There are Assessment and Census records in their collection as well as an excellent Bibliography on Pittsburgh Township - none of these contained specific reference to or early enough records for John Grant but they may well prove valuable in future research on his descendants. An article by Bill Patterson on Pittsburgh Township (A) shows the original lots drawn by John Grant in that township - I believe that these lots encompass Barriefield village of today. Bill has also written a book in recent years on Pittsburgh Township titled Lilacs and Limestone which has some additional references to John Grant. Have you seen this book? If not, I will copy some of the references for you.

The next four pages, B,C,D, E are copies of information that I found on my visit to the Lennox & Addington County Museum in Napanee. I think that they are self-explanatory. Dr. John Grant's obituary report (C) states that there were thirteen children in his family - have you documented that many? Elizabeth VanLuven of Scottsdale, Arizona in her charts submitted to the L&A Museum gives a maiden name of Robbins for Frances who married John Grant. As you will see later I found it was also Grant, not an unusual situation when one encounters Scottish genealogy! In (E) James Grant is noted as being the second son of James Grant of Banfield - I believe this is a missprint for Barriefield!

The next two pages came from the Casey Scrapbooks which have been xeroxed and placed in local libraries. Thomas Casey was the publisher of the Napanee Beaver and instituted his column, "Old-time Records in the very last years of the last century -" - these have proven very valuable in genealogical research as leads to further documentation. John Grant was originally listed as receiving a grant in Cataraqui which in later reports was decided to be the east side of the Cataraqui River in Pittsburgh Township. I will send these on later. (G) gives M.A. Grant as a scholar in Newburgh Academy - could this be another daughter of James and named Mary Ann?

(H & I) are items I found at the Family History Centre of the Church of the Latter Day Saints in Glenburnie north of Kingston. I am a volunteer at this library on Thursdays of each week. The second entry in (H) warrants further investigation - Ann Grant, daughter of John & Frances is listed as being the wife of Edward Jones of Camden Township. Perhaps this was a second marriage to McAffee.

(I) is probably the most interesting item of all. I am almost positive that in 1788 there was only one John Grant - Frances Grant marriage in what was then Ontario! I have sent for the register from Williamstown (on microfilm) to see if it will furnish additional information.

The items labelled J-P are from my own library. (J) shows the farm owned by Dr. John Grant which is now one of the most outstanding establishments in this county - due to the present owners, Mr. & Mrs. H.V. Clarke. I presume that this is where James & Eliza Grant spent their last years. As I said to you on the phone, James Grant is listed as M.D. on his tombstone in Newburgh Cemetery (K). I think this is wrong and will in the near future visit the cemetery in question and take a photograph of the tombstone. (L & M) deal with the same Church Register - St. George's Church in Kingston, however they are some seventy odd years apart in their publication dates. (L) states in its notes that there is some confusion as to the John Grants in Kingston and vicinity. I believe as of this date that there was one John Grant resident in Pittsburgh Township in the last part of the 1700's and he probably was your ancestor. In addition there was John Grant of Lachine, a most prominent man in his time who seems to have held land there, too and also been a merchant or forwarder of some note in Kingston. I think in light of William Edward, son of John & Frances Grant of Pittsburgh Township having married a girl named Eliza born Quebec and having several children born in that province too, one would suspect that there may well have been a connection between the John Grant of Pittsburgh Township and John Grant of Lachine. I have found a notation on the will of John of Lachine being in the Probate Records at the Archives of Ontario and feel that this may well be investigated in the future. Russ Waller's transcription of Rev. John Stuarts's Register just confirms what was transcribed by A.H. Young. Russ Waller has also started a new series of volumes on the Loyalists beginning with Frontenac County (N). (O) gives the muster for the Kings Rangers, also known as Roger's Rangers in which John Grant is listed as one of the rank and file, born Scotland, age 32 years with a height of 5' 9" and 2 years and 4 months service. The last enclosure is (P) The Report of The Bureau of Archives for Ontario - 1904 giving the Claims for Compensation of the Loyalists. A wealth of detail is given in a few short lines by John Grant. His residence, River au Raisine as you may know is north or northeast of Cornwall where he seems to have married Frances Grant. In my experience it was not unusual to find that the bride and groom, if Scottish, bore the same name at marriage. It probably means to me that they came from the same general area of Scotland where Grants were very prevalent. There were a lot of other Grants in Loyalist times who settled in eastern Ontario - most of them seemed to have served in the King's Royal Regiment of New York and were brought out from Scotland by Sir William Johnston of the Johnstown, N.Y.

on the Mowhak River. Your John Grant could have been a relative of these Grants and would have likely requested to be settled near them in Glengarry Township in the first years of settlement.

I propose in the next while to search for the following items:

1. The marriage of James & Eliza Grant and the baptisms of their children in St. George's Church in Kingston, the most logical source.
2. The will of John Grant of Pittsburgh Township, either in the Frontenac County Land Registry Office or in the Surrogate Court Office for the same county.
3. Newburgh Newspapers in the L&A County Museum in Napanee which may contain some references to the Grant family.
4. The Christian Guardian newspaper for an obituary for James Grant.
5. Kingston newspapers for an obituary for John Grant of Pittsburgh Township.
6. Check stone in Newburgh Cemetery for James Grant family. I will do this at my first opportunity - an evening drive for my husband and me.

To date I have spent the following hours of search time:

Kingston Branch OGS Library - 1 1/2 hours
L&A County Museum - Napanee - 1 1/2 hours
Napanee Public Library - 1/2 hour

Total time as of Aug. 29/91 - 4 1/2 hours @ $5.00 = $22.50

I have enjoyed my search for your Grant family, Doug, and anticipate that I will be able to document the fact that your James Grant was indeed the son of John Grant, U.E. of Pittsburgh Township.

Sincerely,

Diane

DOCTOR JOHN GRANT.

One of the very successful physicians and highly respected citizens of Napanee for the past twenty years, died very suddenly at his well known residence on east Bridge street on Monday forenoon last. Seldom have so many people been so shocked at the announcement of such a terribly sudden death. Few citizens had such a wide circle of acquaintances and warm friends, not only in Napanee, but throughout the entire county. He enjoyed a large practice and was a gentleman of very kindly and friendly disposition, such as is almost sure to make many warm friends. He was quite sick for a few weeks last winter, but appeared to have quite recovered again, and he resumed his practice in his usual and careful way. It was thought, however, that he had not been in the enjoyment of good health since. All last week and even last Sunday, he was about as usual in the active care of a number of patients. On Sunday evening he was at his usual place in the Eastern Methodist church and was an attentive listener to an earnest sermon from his pastor, Rev. Mr. McIntyre, from what now appears to have been a strangely appropriate text to his case: "The Master is come, and calleth for thee." During the sermon a feeling allusion was made to the sudden call the night before of Mr. Shipman, who had been the Doctor's friend and roommate in the church for years, and whose death so suddenly and so recently, had affected the Doctor very much. The preacher remarked, "He may call for you or for me this very night," words which now seem prophetic in his case. He went home and visited one or two of his patients before he retired. It is said he slept soundly for a couple of hours and then awoke suffering severe pain in the region of his heart and lungs. His sisters were soon at his bedside and doing all they could, at his own suggestions, for his mind appeared clear and unclouded to the very last. They desired to send for a doctor, but he assured them they were doing for him all that could be done. Seeing, however, that his end was evidently near, he consented to have Dr. Cowan called in, for the satisfaction of his friends and not, he told them, that he supposed anything possible could be done that they were not doing. The result proved that he was quite correct in that opinion. At 10 o'clock in the morning all was over. He pretty clearly foresaw from the beginning of the attack what the result would be.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon and was largely attended, some of his old friends and patients coming in for rallies to pay their last respects. The text of his former pastor's sermon was, "Thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be vacant." The feelings of nearly all present were in deep responsive sympathy to the words. How much he will be missed in many a sick room and by many a family to whose coming his presence once inspired so much hope and comfort was very feelingly alluded to. The remains were taken to Newburgh for interment, beside those of his parents, in the cemetery there.

Dr. John Grant was born in Pittsburg Township, near Point Henry, Kingston, about seventy years ago. He was one of a family of thirteen children, to nearly all of whom he proved a brother indeed. He taught school in his early days in Camden township and afterwards studied medicine, graduating about 1854. He went to California in about 1855 and remained there seven years. He afterwards went to Virginia City, Nevada, and remained about the same length of time. In both cases he was successful as a physician and in mining interests. He returned to Canada and soon located in Napanee, where he has been practicing at his profession ever since, with an interval of travel to the Pacific coast of some months. He was much interested in mining as well as in medicine and had at the time of his death a large number of patients.

not so much at singin'
As those hissalutin' chaps;
My voice, it may be husky
And a little loud perhaps.
For I have been a ploughing,
With a lazy team you see;
They kept me pretty busy with
My "Gitt up," "whoa-haw," "gee,"
But if you pay attention;
I have just a word to say
About a great mistake you make
And do it every day.
In dealing out your praises,
I want to tell you now,
Too often you forget the man
That walks behind the plough.

CHORUS.

You talk about your learned men;
Your wit and wisdom rare.
Your poets and your painters;
They get praises everywhere.

They're well enough to make a shew,
But will you tell me how
The world would ever do without
The man behind the plough?

'Tis very nice to go to school,
To learn to read and write;
'Tis nicer still to dress up fine,
And sport around at night,
Your music, painting, poetry,
May all be hard to beat.
But tell me what you're going to do
For something good to eat?
You say my boots are muddy,
And my clothing is too coarse;
I make a good companion
For the oxen or the horse.
My face is red, my hand is hard—
'Tis true I will allow—
But don't you be too quick to spurn
The man behind the plough.

(Chorus.)

I like your great inventions;
I'm glad you're gettin' smart;
I like to hear your music,
For it kind o' stirs my heart;
But 'twill never touch the stomach,
Of a real hungry man.
And so I call attention
To a kind o' thing that can
Then boys don't be too anxious
For to leave the good old farm,
Your father's strength is falling;
Soon he'll need your youthful arm.
If you're honest in your purpose,
At your feet the world must bow.
For the greatest of the great men is
The man behind the plough.

COUNTIES OF FRONTENAC, LEN

by the Canada Land Company to look after their timber. At present he has charge of eighteen townships for the Ontario Government, and acts as agent for the Canada Land Company in twelve counties. Mr. Freeman is Justice of the Peace in the county of Frontenac, and B. R. in four other counties.

JAMES GRANT, Esq.,

Is second son of the late Mr. James Grant, of Banfield, who was well known in the counties. In 1837 he proceeded to California, via the West Indies, where he embarked in mining operations, and was moderately successful. Thousands of people at that time flocked to that part of the world in pursuit of gold, some of whom made handsome fortunes, while the majority failed to improve their circumstances. Dr. John Grant, brother of the subject of our sketch, accompanied him to California, where he has followed with success the practice of his profession for seventeen years. He settled at a beautiful town, called Watsonville, in the vicinity of San Francisco. The climate of that country is unequalled, and must be considered one of the most productive wheat-growing districts in the world. Notwithstanding the many advantages of that country, however, circumstances so transpired that Mr. Grant was obliged to leave its wealth and beauties, and return to the land of his nativity. In 1860 he settled in the township of Loughborough, where he purchased the valuable farm, a sketch of which, together with a portrait of its owner, appear in our work. In 1868-9 and 1871, Mr. Grant was an active member of the Township Council, and invariably took a lively interest in the welfare of his constituents. He is not only engaged in extensive farming operations, but he devotes special attention to the working of phosphate mines, which have become so important and profitable, in the township of Loughborough.

F. X. COUSINEAU,

Located in the city of Kingston, Ontario, in 1858, with the intention of improving himself in the English language, he being by birth a French Canadian. Having in some measure accomplished his object, his services were secured by the then celebrated house of Mr. James Davis, drygoods merchant, so well known and esteemed in the city and surrounding district. Here he remained two years, and in 1860 he entered the establishment of R. Waddell & Co. Mr. Cousineau's business ability was so appreciated in this house that he was retained nine years, the last three of which he was taken in as partner. During his connection with Messrs. Waddell & Co. the business was considerably enlarged and improved, and the increased wealth and prosperity of the house, it is said, were chiefly due to the tact, energy, and management of the junior member of the firm.

In 1869 the partnership was dissolved by mutual consent, and the subject of our sketch having made himself thoroughly acquainted with the people and trade of the community, commenced business on his own account. The Orange Hall building, a sketch of which appears amongst our illustrations, was then vacant, and had been so for a considerable time, when it occurred to Mr. Cousineau that it was just the place for an extensive drygoods emporium. He was, as it will be seen, correct in his calculations, as in that building he has built up one of the largest and most lucrative retail trades within fifty miles of the Limestone City.

From the first day of opening, Mr. Cousineau resolved upon the wise and safe system of doing business exclusively for cash, and devoted special attention to the cultivation of the farmers' patronage. He buys for cash, and when large parcels of goods are offered at ruinously low prices he is in a position to command the needful, and thus secure for his vast army of customers bargains which they otherwise could not obtain.

One of the grand secrets of Mr. Cousineau's success in business during the last nine years is his method of advertising. He may be justly styled the printer's friend, yet he takes good care that the printer gives him value for his money; he does this part of his business judiciously, choosing always the best modes of keeping the advantages of his house continually before the public. This item of expenditure amounted last year to the large sum of fifteen hundred dollars, yet it is the most profitable investment he could have made, and as a legitimate result he turns over his immense stock nearly four times a year. Narrowly looked into, Mr. Cousineau conducts his business on the mutual principle, that is, he divides his profits with his customers—he buys well and gives them the useful, but less convenient. The new structure better adapted in every way to meet the demand for business, so that the apparent misfortune becomes a benefit. It was supplied with both steam and water power, with all the latest and most improved machinery, and not excelled in the Province in the completeness of the very best furniture of every description, chiefly under the personal supervision of its more active partner, Mr. W. T. Gibbard, can draw-room, dining-room, bed-room, and office furniture, and off article that comes under the head of elegant furniture, from a cradle to a rosewood coffin. In the same year they were rebuilt (1874-5) they made extensive alterations to their commodious warerooms, making them equal in the Province.

These warerooms are kept fully stocked with their line, while the factory is kept continually at work to supply the ever recurring demand of the trade. Not only are the goods confined to their own locality, but the excellence of their furniture have become so well known that Messrs. Gibbard & Son frequently fill orders from all parts of the country, where they have invariably taken part in the Provincial, Central, and County exhibitions.

HENRY R. SPENCER

Was born in the village of Newburgh, Ontario, in 1838, and was educated at the Newburgh Academy, which was conducted by David Beach, Esq., as principal, and by David Beach, Esq., as teacher of the higher branches of English.

At the early age of fifteen years, Mr. Spencer entered the service of David Beach, Esq., when he entered the establishment of David Beach, Esq., being a practical and thorough man of business, and leaving a lasting impression for good on his youth, moulded him into his own character.

He remained with the firm one year, when he was sent to the house of Griffith Davis, of Kingston. Here he remained until he was promoted to the position of clerk, as a parcel boy, but although a humble one, he climbed each step steadily, and that he will ultimately reach its summit. He remained in this house until he was promoted to the position of clerk in the haberdashery department. Gradually, the subject of our sketch rose to the position of a noted and successful man, and his salary from time to time so advanced that he was able to live in easy circumstances.

At this juncture, he thought it would be a good idea to cultivate his intellectual attainments, and he accordingly went to the Newburgh Academy, which was then conducted by William Lewin, Esq., afterwards the Rev. of the Church of England. At the close of his studies, Mr. Spencer was offered a situation by John D. Ham, Esq., which he accepted, and worked for him four years, during which time he changed for a clerkship at Ogdensburg, being perfectly satisfied with his juvenile position, and secured his services on his former salary, and secured his services. During his stay with Mr. Ham, Mr. Spencer received a thorough practical business education, which was of great value to him in his subsequent career.

His employer, John D. Ham, Esq., was a successful business man in Lennox and Addington, and it was through his work upon in the person of Mr. Spencer, we are enabled to see the result of his years' training, that he has produced a fine specimen of a business man.

In 1866, our young friend was offered a situation by Mr. Stephenson, to take charge of a piano business, which he accepted, but did not continue more than eight months, on account of his distaste for that particular line of business. Mr. Spencer managed a drygoods business at Kingston, on the corner of Dundas and East streets, for several years of his management, was greatly improved in his connection between Mr. Spencer and Mr. Stephenson, and the management of the business.

Among the effects of Surveyor-General D. W. Smith proves to be most interesting to those whose forefathers came to Canada towards the end of the last century. A representative of THE EMPIRE, in looking over the papers yesterday, found a report of the commission which met in Kingston in January, 1798, to award patents to settlers and claimants in that district. The report shows how the names of many of the best families in the Bay of Quinte district were spelled a hundred years ago. It also shows the great grab for land made by Richard Cartwright, the grandfather of the Liberal leader of to-day of that name, who was at the time himself a member of the commission. The document in question is as follows, the lots and descriptions of course being omitted:

NEWBURGH ACADEMY AND EARLY SCHOOLS.

Newburgh, years ago, was a formidable rival to Napanee in business and political matters and it led off, by some years, in its educational advantages. For years the Newburgh academy was one of the best schools of all its class in the whole province of Upper Canada, and its fame went far beyond this province. A number of young men, the sons of prominent and wealthy citizens of the Bahama Islands, and others from distant parts were sent to Newburgh to enjoy the best advantages known to them to be anywhere obtained. The sons of well-to-do parents in various parts of our own county and from Kingston and elsewhere were sent to Newburgh in preference to any other locality to finish off their schooling.

THE FIRST ACADEMY.

It was about 1840, or the year following, that the first academy was established at Newburgh. A very substantial frame building of two stories was erected a little east of Main street, with a bell-tower next by, and for about ten years it was used for academy purposes. That school is said to have owed its existence largely to three enterprising citizens, all of whom have now passed off the stage of action, but who, each in his own particular way, did much for the material advancement of their then very enterprising village. They were the

1. Rev. Isaac Brock Aylsworth, M.D., who made Newburgh his home for years. He was a man of much energy and enterprise and of great public spirit. He was a native of this county, a member of the great Aylsworth family and enjoyed the advantages of a much more liberal education than most young men of his time. He graduated as a doctor and practiced medicine for years. He was also an ordained Methodist minister and as such travelled for some time. He was an active politician, one of the old Reform party school, and a very zealous temperance worker. The temperance cause in its early days in this county owed much of its success to his early efforts. After residing years in Newburgh and building a large and comfortable home there, he moved to Collingwood, where his last days were spent.

2. Mr. George Eakins, a gentleman of a quiet and unpretentious manner, but a man of a good deal of intelligence and public spirit. He carried on what was a pretty large cabinet making business at that time, which helped, very materially to build up Newburgh. He was also a very active christian and temperance worker, an official member of the Methodist church. He never took an active part in political or municipal affairs, but did well his share in advancing the moral and educational interests of the village.

3. Robert Forsythe Hope, a man of quite another stripe in many respects, especially in religious and temperance matters, but a man of much intelligence and public spirit; he heartily co-operated in educational matters. One old and intelligent Newburgher informs us that Dr. Aylsworth and Hope were at one time among the master spirits in local political affairs and were popularly known by "the boys" respectively as "the Pope" and "the Devil." They all pulled well together, at any rate, in their efforts to advance the interests of the old academy.

THE PRESENT ACADEMY.

It was in 1850 or thereabouts that the school had so prospered that a new and much larger building was needed, and the "New Stone Academy" was built at the west side of the village. It was a large and very pretentious building for its day, and was very highly spoken of throughout the country, for within its walls much of the excellent work was done that is now being done by some of our best colleges. Nor has its glory ever departed, though in the race of progress similar institutions in the larger towns and cities have left it somewhat behind. The Newburgh academy has always done, and is now doing, an excellent work. In January, 1872 a disastrous fire destroyed the building, leaving little more than its bare walls, and to replace it again much taxed the energies and resources of its friends and of the locality. For a half year during that memorable period the basement of the fine Methodist church was freely opened for the accommodation of the school. The terribly calamitous fire of September, 1887, which nearly wiped out all the business portions of Newburgh, was also a very great drawback to the success of the school, though the building itself was not scorched.

SOME WELL KNOWN TEACHERS.

We are much indebted to Messrs. Geo. Anson Aylesworth, H. M. Deroche and Henry Spencer, all "old boys" of that school, for much of the following information.

The first of a long list of really famous headmasters in that academy was the Rev. Thomas Wightman, a Presbyterian minister of excellent education, and who has always been held in high esteem in the memories of those who attended his instructions. He was succeeded by Rev. S. S. Nelles, who later on became the widely known and honored Principal of Victoria University, at Cobourg, a position which he held until the time of his death.

Then followed David Beach, M. A., who was at the head of the school, we believe, when it went into its new and more commodious quarters, in the stone building. In those good old days which our older readers may yet well remember the names of "Beech" and "Birch" were wonderfully suggestive for a teacher. It was in Mr. Beach's day that the academy began to obtain its very wide fame. Its annual examinations attracted hundreds in for scores of miles around; they were the educational events of the year for the entire county. It was while Mr. Beach was teacher that the Newburgh "Index" was first established by an enterprising young printer, of the Aylesworth family, — now the Rev. T. B. Aylesworth, M. A., LL. D., ex-President of the London Methodist Conference. Mr. Beach soon succeeded him as editor, and he was associated with Allan Caton, Esq., as publisher. Young C. V. Price, now Judge Price, of Kingston, succeeded Mr. Beach in the editorial chair, and the latter retired from the school, and became editor and publisher of a paper at Whitby. He died years ago, much lamented and respected by all who had been associated with him.

Rev. Wm. Lewis came next, commencing about 1858, and continuing down to 1866. He is a native of Wales and came to Canada, where he has ever since lived. After several years of successful teaching, he resigned and assumed the duties of an Anglican clergyman, at Shannonville, Prescott, and other places. He is now a retired minister, residing in Kingston.

John Campbell, M. A., came next, and had a very successful career, of some years, when he resigned and accepted the Principalship of Napanee High School. Mr. Campbell had been previously a teacher at Victoria College; he is now superannuated and resides in Toronto. One of his old time scholars writes: "He taught at Newburgh from 1865 to 1871. In his day the academy resembled an English Classic school; — young men came from considerable distances to attend, and had their residence in the house of the Principal. A score or so came from the distant Bahama Isles, upon the recommendation of Dr. Ryerson," who knew Mr. Campbell at Victoria College.

Alfred McClatchie, M. A., followed teaching from 1871 to 1875. He retired and now resides in Hastings County. It was during his incumbency that the fire occurred, destroying the school building. Later followed a nephew of the great Thomas Carlyle. It is said by one of his scholars that, "He held himself so far aloof from his pupils that he failed to win their intellectual sympathies, and thus impaired his success."

Peter Leavins, D. D., M. A., succeeded and after teaching at Newburgh some time, resigned and accepted a similar position at Napanee. He afterwards studied law and is practicing in Michigan. It is said he is now a member of the Senate in that state. T. M. Henry, M. A., followed and taught there successfully. He is now the respected Principal of the Napanee Collegiate.

The late Charles Wynn Williams was teacher before, at the time of and after the calamitous Newburgh fire of 1887. He won many warm friends among whom were well-nigh all his pupils. The academy, however, has passed all these fiery ordeals and has still a grand career of usefulness. By dint of hard work and good management three masters are now required, and they are kept much more busy than two formerly were.

SOME OF ITS OLD BOYS.

Among those who have gone out from its walls and have become well known men in the world are Judge C. V. Price, of Kingston; Rev. Manly Benson, D. D., now of Gananoque, and late of Ottawa and Toronto; A. B. Aylesworth, Q. C., a leading Toronto barrister; H. M. Deroche, Q. C., our County Attorney, and J. H. Madden his partner; John W. Bell, M. P., Desmond; W. R. Aylesworth, D. L. S., ex-Co. Warden of Hastings; Dr. M. I. Beeman, of Newburgh; J. L. Haycock, ex-M. P. P., Cataraqui; the late Dr. John Morden, of Brockville, and hosts of others who have been greatly benefitted by the grand old academy of which Newburgh has always been proud.

COMMON SCHOOL TEACHERS.

A number, who acted in the capacity of assistants, or common school teachers, also did nobly their work and are well worthy of lasting remembrance. Among them were Mr. Carlton, Wm. Carlson, who afterwards became a leading doctor in Brooklyn, N.Y., and the author of an interesting book of European travels; the late Edmund Hooper, ex-M.P.; the late John B. McGinn, Esq., afterwards our well known townsman; the late Wm. McMullen; H.M. Deroche and the late W. McGee, who also taught in Napanee; Miss Yourex, Miss McKim, now Mrs. Feunell of Napanee, and many others.

AN OLD REGISTER.

We have been favored with access to an old time teachers' Common school register of Newburgh, for the years 1852 and '53, which is now of real interest. It was kept by Miss Martha J. Hawarth, a well known teacher at that time. She was an American by birth, a daughter of the Hon. Abel E. Hawarth, who represented Jefferson county in the New York State Legislature for years. Miss Hawarth afterwards married Benjamin Hazzard, Esq., of Sophiasburgh. She died a few years ago at Chicago, leaving several children who are becoming very successful in the business world. She used to claim, with considerable satisfaction, that she first taught H. M. Deroche his A B Cs. Her sister, Eliza Hawarth, also taught during previous years. Later on she married Mr. Homer Spencer, long a well known business man at Newburgh, and father of our well known townsman Mr. Henry R. Spencer. She died at Mr. Spencer's residence here, a few years ago and lies buried beside her husband in the Newburgh cemetery.

We regret we have only space left to give the names of the scholars in the Newburgh Common school of nearly fifty years ago:

Emily Finkle, now Mrs. C. J. Curlette of Adolphustown; Sarah Finkle, now Mrs. Wm. Hope, Toronto; Bertha Finkle, now Mrs. T. S. Henry, Napanee; Emeline E. Stickney, the late Mrs. John R. Scott, Napanee; Samantha Deroche, now Mrs. J. S. C. Shorey, Newburgh; Rose Deroche, now Mrs. Geo. Watts, Odessa; Mary Black, now Mrs. Jas. Holmes, Newburgh; Lydia Clark, now Mrs. E. Wells, B.C.; Helen Detlor, now of Napanee; Anna and Matilda Jones, daughters of Rev. B. Jones; Caroline McPherson, E. J. Spencer, Cecelia Barton, Rosanna Barton; H. and M. L. Aylsworth, daughters of Rev. Dr. Aylsworth; Jane Snider, Jane Papa, Margaret Scott, Jerueia Kay, E. A. Detlor, Sarah and Mary Brown, L. Howell, M. Land, S. E. Graves, L. J. Dawson, L. A. Whitelock, Margaret, Caroline and Matilda Clare, M. E. Miller, Mary Pinney, Anna Shutler, Sarah and Lydia Clark, Susan and Ellen Pomeroy, Anna, Helen and Hannah Bell, M. A. Grant, L. Fish, J. Creighton, Martha and Elizabeth McConnell.

THE LATE REV. DAVID WILSON.

The Methodist church has lost one of its oldest and well known ministers in the death of the Rev. David Wilson, which took place at his residence, North Fredericksburgh, on Tuesday morning last. Though in the eighty-fourth year of his age, and the fifty-fifth of his Christian ministry, he retained to the last his vigor, mental and physical, to a wonderful degree. Up to the day of his death his mind and memory remained clear and undimmed, and his physical strength was remarkable for one of his years. Until three or four weeks ago he continued active, and his genial face and cordial greeting were familiar on our streets, as at almost any time for the past half century. His strength began then to give way, but it was only for a couple of weeks he was confined to his room. Even then his mind continued clear and his voice strong as before sickness. He suffered little pain. It might be said of him as of the aged Charles Wesley, simply that "the weary wheels of life stood still."

The Rev. David Wilson has been so well known in all these counties for the past two generations that we need say little of him. Our grey-headed readers remember first hearing him preach when they were young boys and some remark that seldom has a year occurred since when they have not heard him. He was a man of clear mind, extensive reading, of strong and decided views of his own on nearly every question, religious and political, but withal so genial and kindly that his friends could be counted by thousands, including all sects and parties.

To identify John Grant has been very difficult, even though the name appears on the plan of the town and of the township. Some men of the same name who were granted land in the immediate vicinity of Kingston had been officers in the 84th (Royal Highland Emigrants) Regt.

A John Grant claimed in 1797 Lots 19 and 20 on the East side of the Grand River Cataraqui, which were decided to be in Pittsburgh (D. W. Smith Papers, Vol. B 10, PP 167 and 222).

In all probability, the John Grant mentioned in this baptismal entry appears rather frequently in Mr. Cartwright's Letter Book (Shortt Collection). From the letters written to him, Messrs. J. & A. McGill, and Messrs. McTavish, Frobisher & Co., it appears he was in the trading and shipping business at least in the years 1797 to 1801. In the letter of August 12, 1799, Mr. Cartwright refuses to let him have flour at $3½ when he can get $4 for it; and he complains of the way in which the stoves had been sent. In July, 1801, Grant is to deliver to the McGills 30 bbls of flour "in Town without having any Thing to demand of you for them." Frequently it would appear as though such consignments were delivered only at Lachine or, at farthest, at the "Water Gate," Montreal.

Dear Doug:

Thank you for your letter dated 28 November 1991 with the enclosed cheque for thirteen dollars ($13.00). I am pleased that you are satisfied with the research that I have undertaken to that date.

I have decided that, since there is so much information to send on to you at this time, I will divide it up into several letters dealing with one avenue of search at a time. This will make it less confusing for you and less frustrating for me to deal with it all at once.

I am enclosing with this letter the research that was done in the Anglican Church Diocesan Archives in Kingston re baptisms, marriages and burials of the Grant family.

Page 1 - deals with the baptisms of the children of John and Frances Grant. As you can see all the children are there except Ann. Perhaps she was baptised somewhere else. Certainly there was ample time for her birth between the time of the marriage of her parents in 1788 and the birth of James in 1795. There probably were other births or miscarriages in this interval, too. Alternatively she could have been born between Hannah and Frances (a tight squeeze), between Peter and William Edward or even after Sarah Isabella although since Frances was already 40 at the birth of Sarah I doubt that this was probable. At any rate there seems to be no baptism for her at St. George's - most strange! I can not yet reconcile all the data found on Ann Grant daughter of John and Frances of Pittsburgh - but more of that later. I feel very confident that the marriage of John and Frances Grant in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Williamstown as found in the International Genealogical Index at the Family History Center at Glenburnie refers to the people by the same name in Pittsburgh Township. In the enclosed baptismal records John and Frances acted as sponsors for some of the children of those who were sponsors for their own children, i.e. the Bayleys and the McKays. At Sarah Isabella's baptism Edward and Ann Jones were the sponsors. As you will see on Page 3 Ann and Edward had a child baptised the same day with John and Frances the sponsors!

Page 2 - I have given you the baptisms of the children of Peter and Mary Grant, too for I think there was probably a close connection between John and Peter. Who the John Grant Senr is in the baptism of Peter's first child, John Forsyth is a puzzle - is it our John Grant or another who conceivably could be Peter's father and maybe John's father too or even the father of Frances since her maiden from the Archives of Canada since last August the loan of the Upper Canada Land Petitions which contain the petitions of John Grant's children, in order to confirm all the orders for land as noted in Reid's by the designation O.C.(Order-in-Council). Unfortunately there has been a mix-up and I have yet to receive the microfilm.

I think there may have been two Ann Grants in Pittsburgh. Ann who later married a McAfee was definitely the daughter of John & Frances. She died in 1845 leaving a husband and several children. Her death notice does not say where she was living but the notice itself came from Napanee so one would assume that that was her location. No age is given for this Ann at her death. Unless she is the same as Ann Grant wife of Edward Jones (and later his widow) who petitioned after her marriage for land there seems to be no petition for land for this girl. Maybe it is indexed under McAfee and not noted by Mr. Reid. This is another item to examine.

The other Ann Grant was definitely the daughter of a John Grant of Pittsburgh. She married Edward Jones in 1806 and petitioned for her land the next year. She must have been at least fifteen or sixteen at her marriage and was therefore born about 1790. She and her husband were sponsors to the last child born to John & Frances Grant and in turn these two Grants were sponsors to her daughter, Frances Grant Jones baptised on the same day. Now was this Ann Grant the daughter of John & Frances Grant who after the death of Edward Jones remarried a man named McAfee as I speculated above or was she another person altogether? I think she was the latter for several reasons. The death notice for Ann McAfee reads as if it was for a much younger woman than this Ann who would have been around 55 years if she was married to Edward at 16 years of age. I think that she was indeed the daughter of one John Grant of Pittsburgh but that it was not our John. She may be John's sister or even more likely a sister of Frances whose maiden name was the same as her married one. Edward & Ann Jones seem to have gone to Camden Township to reside but I have not found any early data there to confirm her identification.

The only other Grant I found in St. George's records of the time was one Elisha.

I did search for the marriage of James Grant and Eliza Williams and the baptism of their children in the following Anglican registers but there was nothing at all. I strongly suspect that Eliza came from a Methodist background and the marriage and baptisms would be in those registers. Unfortunately, so few of these registers have ever surfaced and those that did are of a later date.

St. George's Kingston - Index up until 1830

St. John's, Ernesttown - Index up until 1814 (This covered all the parishes to the west of Kingston)

St. Alban's, Adolphustown - 1820-1830

St. Paul's, Fredericksburgh - 1820-1830 which also included some of Adolphustown

St. Mark's, Barriefield - I just browsed through these records

St. Marks, (Cont.)

St. John's, Ernestown

which were of a very late date in the late 1840's into the 1850's but found no information. The land on which St. Marks sits was originally John & Frances Grant's land

My next letter will contain the research in the Land Records of Pittsburgh Township at Queen's University Archives. Unfortunately there was no conclusive evidence that your James was the son of John of Pittsburgh. There may never be any exact detailing of the relationship but the more work I do into your family, Doug, the more circumstantial evidence surfaces that they were father and son. Perhaps that is all that will come to the fore. There is such a dearth of data of that time in our history, I am sorry to say.

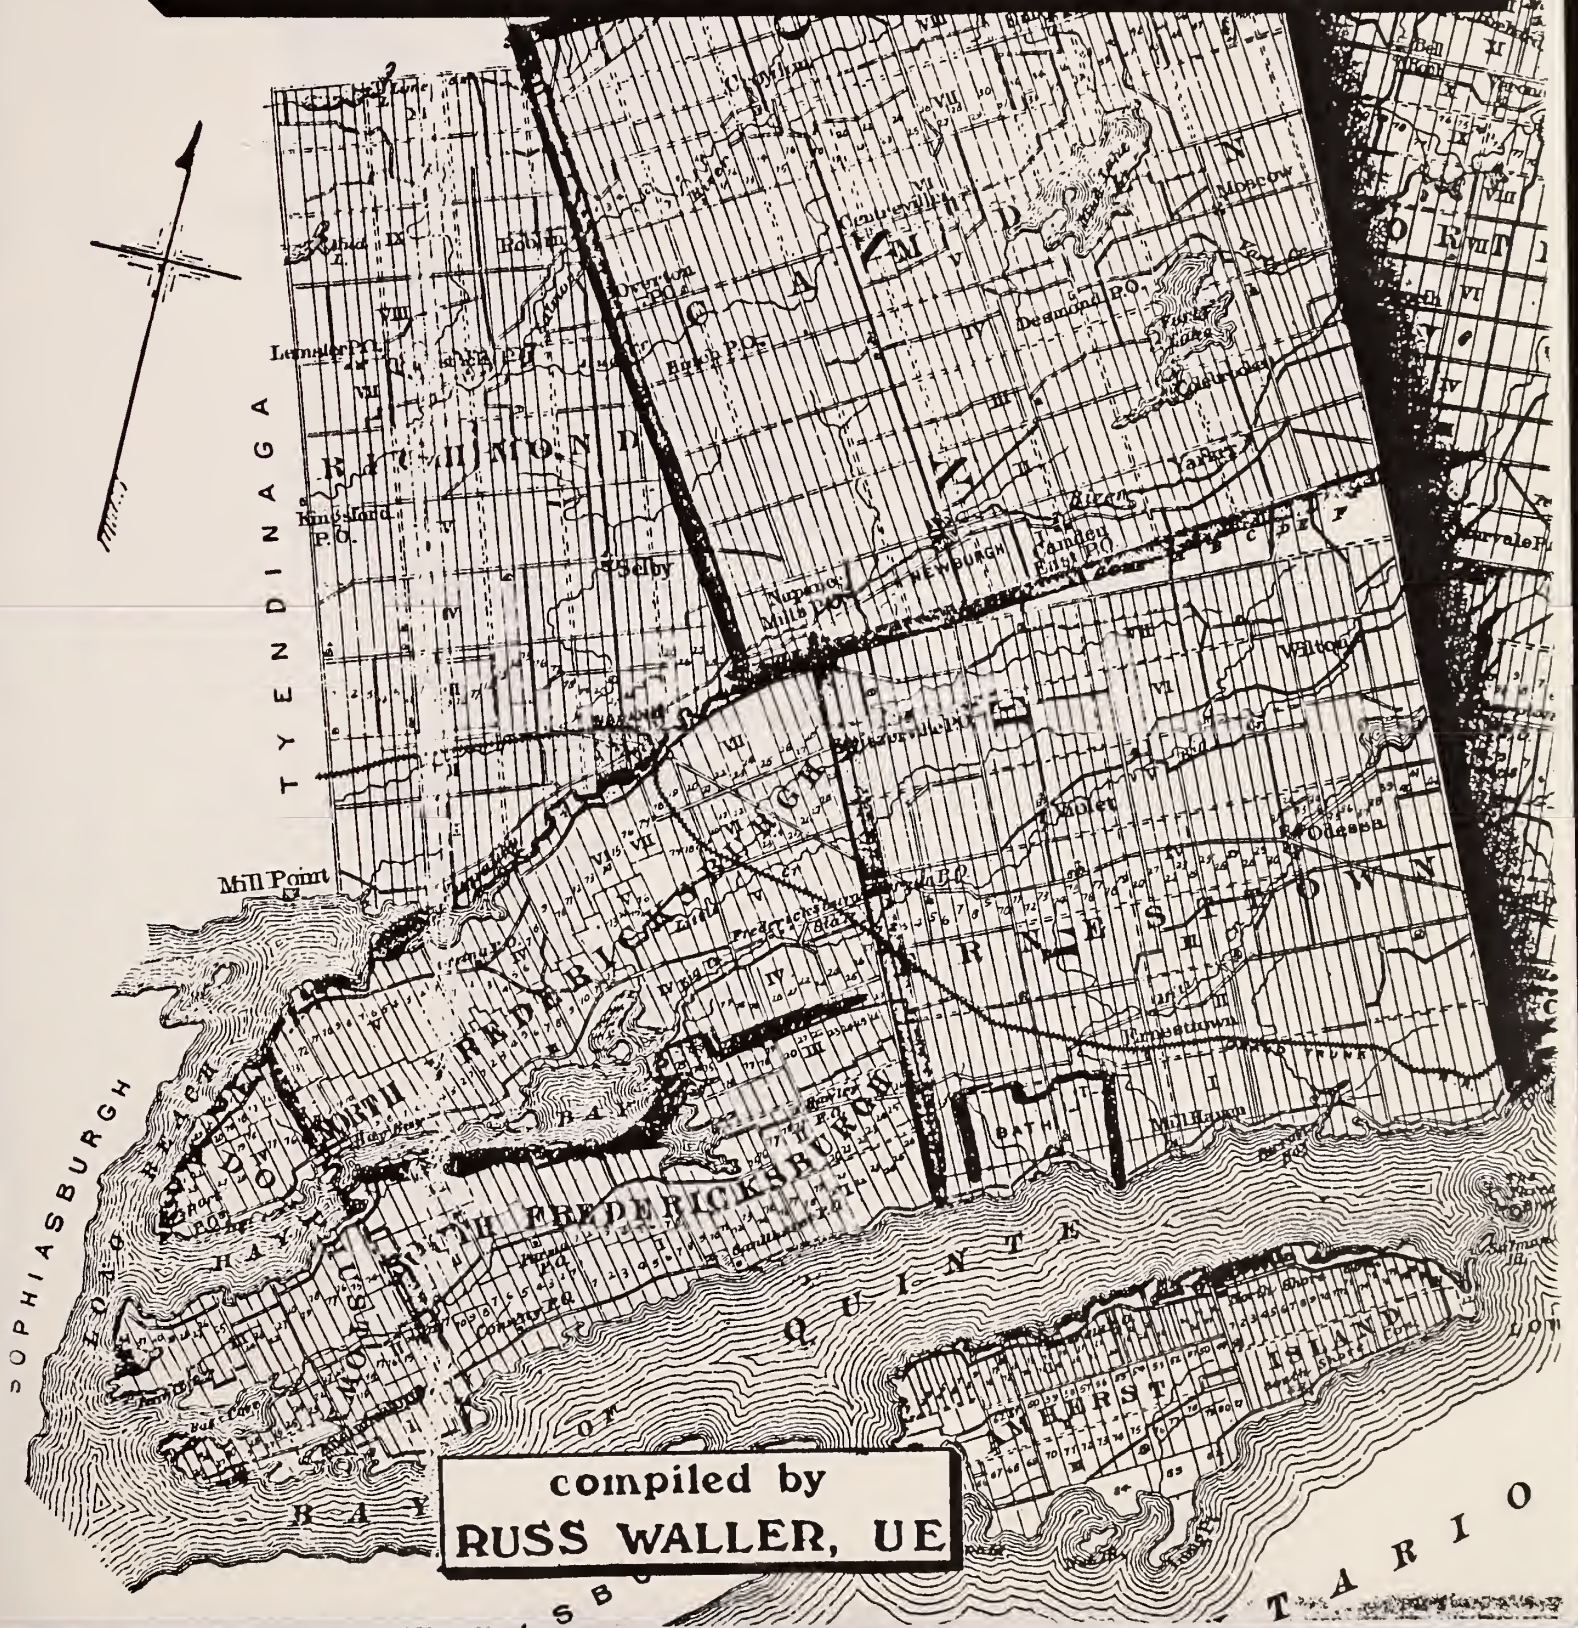

My best wishes to you in this New Year of 1992.

Sincerely,

U.E. LOYALIST LINKS

Dear Doug:

Enclosed are the documents and notes on the land transactions of John and James Grant in Pittsburgh Township. Unfortunately, they do not furnish any real proof for you as yet but the pieces of the puzzle are falling in place.

It is interesting to find that James was the eldest son and heir of his father, John. We now know that John Grant of Pittsburgh must have died between June 13, 1822 and January 5, 1824. It is still a puzzle to me that he is not included in the burials records of St. George's Church in Kingston when his wife Frances was recorded in the burial register for September 1821. My only conclusion can be that he did not die in Pittsburgh but in some other location. Could it be down river in Cornwall area where I believe he originally hailed from? Or, perhaps he was living with one of his other children at the time and was buried there.

I still believe that John Grant, yeoman of Pittsburgh Township and John Grant of Lachine were in some manner related, perhaps not by blood but by association. I am enclosing, too some information on John of Lachine from "A Dictionary of Scottish Emigrants To Canada Before Confederation". Unfortunately there is no listing for SGC although I suspect it is meant to be SDG which is "Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry" by John Graham Harkness, Oshawa, 1946. I will copy the listing in the Dictionary of Canadian Biography when I am at the library the next time. I will also attempt to obtain a copy of his will which is located in Toronto at the Ontario Archives in the early Probate Court Records. His will must have been originally probated in Quebec where he resided but since he owned property in Ontario it had to be probated in this province, too. As we have seen it was registered in Frontenac County but only as a memorial.

The entry of Frances, daughter of William Robbins of Charlottenburgh and wife of John Grant of Montague in William D. Reid's "The Loyalists in Ontario, The sons and Daughters of the American Loyalists Of Upper Canada" proves that this Frances was not the Frances who married John Grant of Pittsburgh and died in 1821, some fourteen years before Frances Robbins Grant petitioned for her land.

More will be on its way to you shortly.

I hope that you have had a good winter. Spring is surely on its way now.

Sincerely,

P.S.

I am including in "The Loyalists of Ontario" material the relevant pages on the Grant petitions - I hadn't realized until now that I hadn't sent them on to you before although they were the main source material used by Russ Waller in his "U.E. Loyalists Links - Frontenac County" which I did send too you. W.D.Reid's book "The Loyalists in Ontario" is considered to be the Loyalist Bible even though it does contain some omissions and errors unknowingly made by Mr. Reid who was employed at the Archives of Ontario when he compiled this record. O.C. refers to the date of the Order-in-Council when the children of Loyalists were granted their land. The petitions that preceded the granting of the land are contained in the Upper Canada Land Petitions at the Archives of Canada in Ottawa. After an agonizing wait since last August for the index to these petitions to arrive at my library in Kingston I finally have been able to order on microfilm those relating to the Grants of Pittsburgh starting with one for John and his son James. There are others that I will send for later. It is a long process to obtain the information from these papers but worth the wait, I hope.

Lot No. 9 or 4 in Barriefield

D. 25

I have included the documents on this lot in Barriefield village as it was definitely owned by John Grant, yeoman of Pittsburgh. I am not familiar with the term Bond but expect it may serve the same purpose as a mortgage.

I believe from all of these documents that we can deduce that John Grant, yeoman, of Pittsburgh died sometime within the period of time June 13, 1822 (#G. 820) and Jan 5, 1824 (H. 84) when James is called heir at law.

Dear Mr. MacKinnon

I am interested in obtaining some assistance in genealogical research. The O.G.D., Kingston Branch referred me to Mrs. Barbara Aitken. She in turn asked me to write to you as one very knowledgeable in my area of interest.

My primary concern is to learn the parentage of my great-grandfather James Grant (1795 to possibly 1796 to 1862). He was married to Eliza Williams and they lived (in their latter years, at least) at Newburgh, Ont. and are buried in Newburgh Cemetery. I have a record of their 10 children and many of later generations of their descendants, of whom I am one.

I have been told that the Parish Register of Kingston shows a James Grant born in 1796 who was the eldest in a family which included Jane (1798) Hannah (1800) Fanny (1803) Peter (1805) and William Edward (1808). Family lore has it that my great-great-grandfather was a United Empire Loyalist settler whose name is associated with a land grant in Pittsburg Township, possibly in the vicinity of Fort Henry. There is also an association with the Adolphustown area. All the information in this paragraph is unconfirmed.

I realize that it is difficult to estimate the amount of time required to make a search like this. But if you would be willing to undertake it I would like to know in advance the approximate possible level of expenditure involved for me.

Last Saturday night I sat opposite a Mr. & Mrs. MacKinnon at the Grant Hall Society dinner at Queens; it would be interesting if it might have been you.

yours truly.

Introduction to the Assessment

Since their inception municipal governments have required revenue to operate and this revenue has been raised mainly through taxation. These taxes may be defined as a compulsory contribution from the person taxed to the local government, to defray the expense of municipal administration.

a) General History

In the early assessments only occupied and patented land was assessable and the properties owned by ratepayers were divided into two classes according to the amount of real and personal property owned by them. One class started at an assessment of 50 pounds and progressed by graduations of 50 pounds to a maximum assessment of 400 pounds. The rates of the lowest class were 2s. 6d. per year, while the highest went to 20s.

In 1811 a new system based on the assessment of real and personal property, at fixed values, was introduced. Thus the assessors were directed to assess:

Every acre of arable pasture or meadow land, twenty shillings; every acre of uncultivated land, four shillings, every town lot (1 acre), fifty shillings; every house built with timbers squared or hewed on two sides, one storey in height, with not more than two fireplaces, thirty pounds; and for every additional fireplace eight pounds; every framed house under two stories in height with not more than two fireplaces, thirty-five pounds; and for every additional fireplace, five pounds; every brick or stone house of one storey and not more than two fireplaces, 40 pounds.

These rates increased for dwellings of two stories or containing more than two fireplaces. Rates were also set out for grist mills, saw mills, and commercial establishments.

The beginnings of the modern school taxation system can be found in the Assessment Act of 1841. This act provided for the collection from inhabitants of sums necessary to erect school houses and for contributions by the ratepayers sending children to school. It is peculiar that the 1844

Pittsburgh Township Assessment contains a section for the purposes of schools, as does the 1846 assessment, yet there is little evidence that a school was actually operating between 1838 and 1848.

b) Using the Assessment

The assessment rolls are valuable in addressing such subjects as mobility, occupational classes, property values and farming practices.

When one is transcribing an assessment or any original document one always meets the problem of apparent errors in the original and the question arises whether a transcriber and editor should correct these errors in their copy. This editor has chosen to leave the copy exactly as it is in the original. It is the transcribers job to provide a more legible and readily accessible copy of an original document. I would suggest that anyone with a serious problem with this copy should return to the original to solve the issue.

There are many problems in transcribing an original document and it will prove instructive to define the specific difficulties with the 1844 and 1846 assessment rolls. Preservation is a major concern, especially with the 1846 assessment. The document is in rather poor condition. Some rodents have attacked the document and as a result a large hole obliterates some of the headings which, fortunately, can be deduced from information in other contemporary assessments. Unfortunately, the assessment also has water damage and the final names of the first and last few pages are very faint. By crossreferencing the visible information with other documents these names have been restored and are presented here as we believe they were in the original.

In reference to both documents, the handwriting proved to be consistently difficult to read and several of the names may be misspelt in this copy. The index has been prepared to help alleviate this difficulty. If the name does not appear as you expect it try all the names beginning with the same letter. A similar name may be the one you are searching for. If perchance you know the lot and concession occupied by the individual, then merely follow the 'C' column as the lot and concession progress consecutively throughout the roll. In this copy only columns that had information in them have been included. An index of the extant Pittsburgh Township assessment rolls and collector's rolls from 1846-1948 has been prepared to aid those in search of information that is contained in these rolls.

Dear Diane,

It is over a month since you last wrote me but I have been away and have been otherwise delayed.

The budget of documentation you sent and the contents of your letter were very interesting and serve to illustrate how complex such research as yours can be.

If it is any help (probably not) I may say that Grant family verbal lore always referred to a land Grant at or near Fort Henry as being connected with our ancestry.

I appreciate the interest you are taking in this research and wish you all success.

Best season's greetings to you and all your family

Sincerely,

Doug.

Dear Mrs. Mac Kinnon:

I was away for most of June and received your June 15 letter only recently. I am pleased that you are willing to conduct the Grant search for me and your arrangements for remuneration seem very fair.

If it is agreeable to you I would like to authorize an expenditure of up to $150 and if, after the work that that pays for is done, it appears that further search would be fruitful I would be prepared to have you continue for a second $150 worth of work. I would however like the opportunity of reviewing the progress after the first $150 worth of work is done.

The only search conducted in the past of which I am aware is indicated by information given to me by a distant cousin which states that the Parish Register of Kingston, 1785-1811 (Reference 971-371/K1 V26 Y) records the births of James Grant (14 Feb 1796), James Grant (14 Jan, 1798), Hannah Grant (12 Jan, 1800), Fanny Grant (21 May 1803), Peter Grant (11 Aug, 1805), and William Edward Grant (3 July, 1808).

I guess what I want to confirm is that the James Grant shown here is the same person as the James Grant who married Eliza Williams and who is buried in Newburgh Cemetery; also, of course, I want to find out who his parents were.

My telephone is (613) 342-4634 and you may call collect if there is urgent need to contact me.

Again, thank you for undertaking this search.

Yours truly

D. A. Grant

Dear Mr. Grant:

Please excuse me for being so long in replying to your letter dated May 14, 1991. Your letter arrived at the time I was heavily involved in the annual seminar of the Ontario Genealogical Society held in Kingston on May 24-26. Since that time I have tried to pick up the threads of my life, both personally and in a business sense.

I would be most interested in assisting you in your endeavour to identify the parents of your great-grandfather, James Grant. How successful we will be is debatable! I do note that there was a U.E. Loyalist who settled in Pittsburgh by the name of John Grant who could have been your forebear.

My fee is five dollars ($5.00) per hour of actual search time plus any costs involved in photoduplication, office search fees or procuring of documents. I do not require any payment before the search is begun; that can be made as we go along or at the end of the search, whichever you prefer. As you say, it is difficult to estimate the possible expenditure involved in any search. I cannot estimate that, either. I will say that we can determine how long you would like to involve your self in the search. Some people limit the amount expended at $100.00, others to a certain time limit. The only thing I can say, Mr. Grant, is that I recover very little beyond my initial costs, such as parking fees - my only reason for undertaking the job is my love of genealogical research.

Before any research is undertaken I do require that you make available to me any search that has been conducted in the past, in order that duplicate searches will not be made.

I look forward to hearing from you if you decide to have me undertake your research for you.

Unfortunately I was not the Mackinnon that attended the Grant Hall Society dinner. I did not attend Queen's University although my father was a Meds '26 grad and my brother and sister attended in the 1950's. My Alma Mater was Mac Hall at Quelp.

Sincerely,

Diane Mackinnon

Rogues' Hollow

The story of the Village of Newburgh Ontario through its buildings

PETER JOHN STOKES

TOM CRUICKSHANK

ROBERT HEASLIP

1. YORK/BENN HOUSE, c. 1895,

Lot 13, Concession 1 (not illustrated)

This is a very large two-storey frame house with decorative woodwork on the side porch. It was built at an unusual angle to the Camden Road, but its location may be related to the grid survey line. It has a hipped roof form typical of the 1890s. The accompanying barn, located behind and to the east of the house, is a large centre-door gabled type, with an east end addition.

On the maps of 1860 (Walling) and 1878 (Meacham) the property belongs to R. Collins, who acquired this farm in 1854 and sold it in 1883. The 1860 map shows a building on the south-east corner of the village boundary and the Camden Road, towards the east side of Lot 13. The present structure appears to represent a rebuilding, or major renovation by Thomas Miles York, who was in possession from 1885 to 1902.

2. BLACK/McMILLAN HOUSE, c. 1850,

Lot 14, West Half, Concession 1 (not illustrated)

This is a large white frame house with a modest gable and a large lean-to kitchen. With the carefully aligned windows and entrance, the building could date from as early as 1850, the present form exhibiting later additions and changes. A house is recorded on the site in 1860, but one is not shown in 1878, possibly an omission. Typical of many of the earlier farmhouses, it is located fairly close to the road. Here the barn, a large gable-roofed structure with centre door, is across the road, taking advantage of the slope to provide a stable area below within the stone foundation, in effect a bank barn. Regrettably, this fine structure is being allowed to deteriorate.

The property on both the 1860 and 1878 maps is shown as belonging to John Black, recorded as owner from 1845, who willed it to his wife for life in 1878, then to G. B. Black. The family held it until 1883. But it is later that a rather sad tale, in the light of the times, was revealed by the records: the taking out of a $2,500 mortgage in 1924 and its discharge four years later, then another mortgage of $507.50 in 1930, foreclosed by the same mortgagee four years afterwards — at the depth of the Great Depression.

Fig. 130. Jones/Clarke House, view from the north

3. JONES/CLARKE HOUSE, c. 1855,

Lot 14, East Half, Concession 1

This house, probably from the mid-1850s, is unusual in that landscaping hides it from the road. The form appears as an L shape of one and a half storeys. The west gable of moderate pitch with a round-headed window suggests a date in the third quarter of the nineteenth century. The present wall finish is pebbledash, no doubt over earlier clapboard.

On the 1860 Walling map, E. Jones is noted as the owner of the property. He sold it to John Grant in 1861, recorded as Dr. Jno. Grant in the 1878 Meacham atlas. A house is shown in both cases. The Grant family owned the property until 1906. Since 1943 H. V. Clarke, a former Reeve of the Village, and his wife have owned the farm.

SEASONS GREETINGS

Dear Family and Friends,

Extremely few Christmas cards were sent the last three years. Had health problems that had to be attended to. The ulcers which formed on both my feet have healed. It is hoped they will never return again. While attending Mayo Clinic a complete examination was given which included a mammogram. A cancer was found which was operated on with radiation and x-ray treatments after wards. Presently I am feeling fine. However, I'll be having medical examination at stated intervals.

Philip and Karen now have six sons and one daughter. They are all very active and lovely children.

Todd, Beverly's son is 19. Both of them attend evening college courses which they seem to enjoy.

Barbara remains living and working in New York City with the Social Security System. She hopes to be with Social Security until she retires. We in Arizona hope she will come back here to live when she retires.

Martin, my other delightful nephew, and his family have moved back to Florida. He and his wife Gerry have three daughters who have grown into beautiful young ladies. Their grandmother, my sister-in-law, enjoys the family very much. I hope to visit them once more when I am able to travel again.

Russell, my brother-in-law, comes to my house to eat dinner most every evening. He drives his car to my home and then drives both of us to church, to the doctors' offices and other places when needed. Thus my car is kept in working order. He still works at McCormick Railroad Park and is on the Board of Directors at Chandler Railroad Museum.

Have a very lovely Christmas and a Happy New Year. May God bless you and keep you in His care. My love to you always.

Dear Beth:

I am sorry it has taken so long to answer your Christmas letter. I appreciate that you keep in touch and hope your health improves.

Mrs. Dawn Broughton, Box 346, R.R.# 2 Kingston, Ontario, K7L 5H6, does research in the Kingston area. Frontenac cemetery transcriptions are at Kingston Public Library.

Did we get the Grants sorted out when you were here? James Grant of Banfield had 13 children [1878 Atlas], father of James Grant Esq. who went to California 1857 then returned to Pittsburgh Twp. James had a brother Dr. John Grant b. 1873, d. 1901, in Napanee who accompanied him to California. Dr. John is buried in Newburgh with his parents. This must be James Grant M.D. obituary.

John Grant of Pittsburgh [Twp.] was a soldier in the Kings Rangers. Sons and Daughters of American Loyalist by W.D. Reid. He had a son James baptised 14 Feb. 1796.

This looks like the progression of your family. I do not know if we put it together when you were here or what copies you took with you. I will copy the sketch on James Grant, brother of John M.D. If you need the obituary of John or the page from Sons and Daughters let me know.

Sincerely,

Cora Reid

THE FORMATION OF PITTSBURGH TOWNSHIP

by Bill Patterson

When I began to think about writing the history of Pittsburgh Township my initial thoughts were of family stories I had heard as a boy. My parents' families - Patterson and McLean - were typical Pittsburgh: farmers, Scots - Irish, Protestant, and Tory. My father's tales were few in number, but rather exciting as they usually involved some exploits connected with fighting and drinking (Dad was an Anglican). Mother, being a Presbyterian, had more sober stories about hard work, education, and family tradition. Believe it or not, I remember more about Mother's family because of its interesting ties to the very early history of Pittsburgh.

My maternal grandmother, Grace Ann Maria Adelia Ruttan was born on lot 10 East of the Great Cataraqui River, on present-day Highway 15, just north of the Gore Road, the youngest child of John Canniff Ruttan and Sarah Baillie. John Canniff was the son of Joseph Brant Ruttan and grandson of Captain Peter Ruttan, Loyalist, one of the founders of Adolphustown. Captain Peter had named a son after Joseph Brant, the celebrated Indian chief, because of friendship with Brant during the American Revolution. John Canniff served in the Lennox and Addington militia during the Rebellion of 1837-1838, and was stationed for awhile at Fort Henry. It was in this way that a boy from Adolphustown met a girl from Barriefield in 1838, married her the same year, and settled on lot 10 in 1839.

His bride, Sarah Baillie, was born on lot 17, just north of St. Mark's Church, Barriefield, a daughter of John Baillie and Ann Parlow. John, born in Scotland, was an original land grantee who had taken up his land in 1794, after marrying Ann on December 4, 1792 in St. George's Church. She was a daughter of Lawrence Parlow, Loyalist, and had spent some years of the war on Carleton Island. Family tradition claimed at some point she had been stolen by the Indians (this is a fairly common Loyalist story), and learned some of their language. It is possible she had picked it up from Molly Brant's daughters who also were on Carleton Island. One of them, Magdalen, was a sponsor at the baptism of one of Ann's sons.

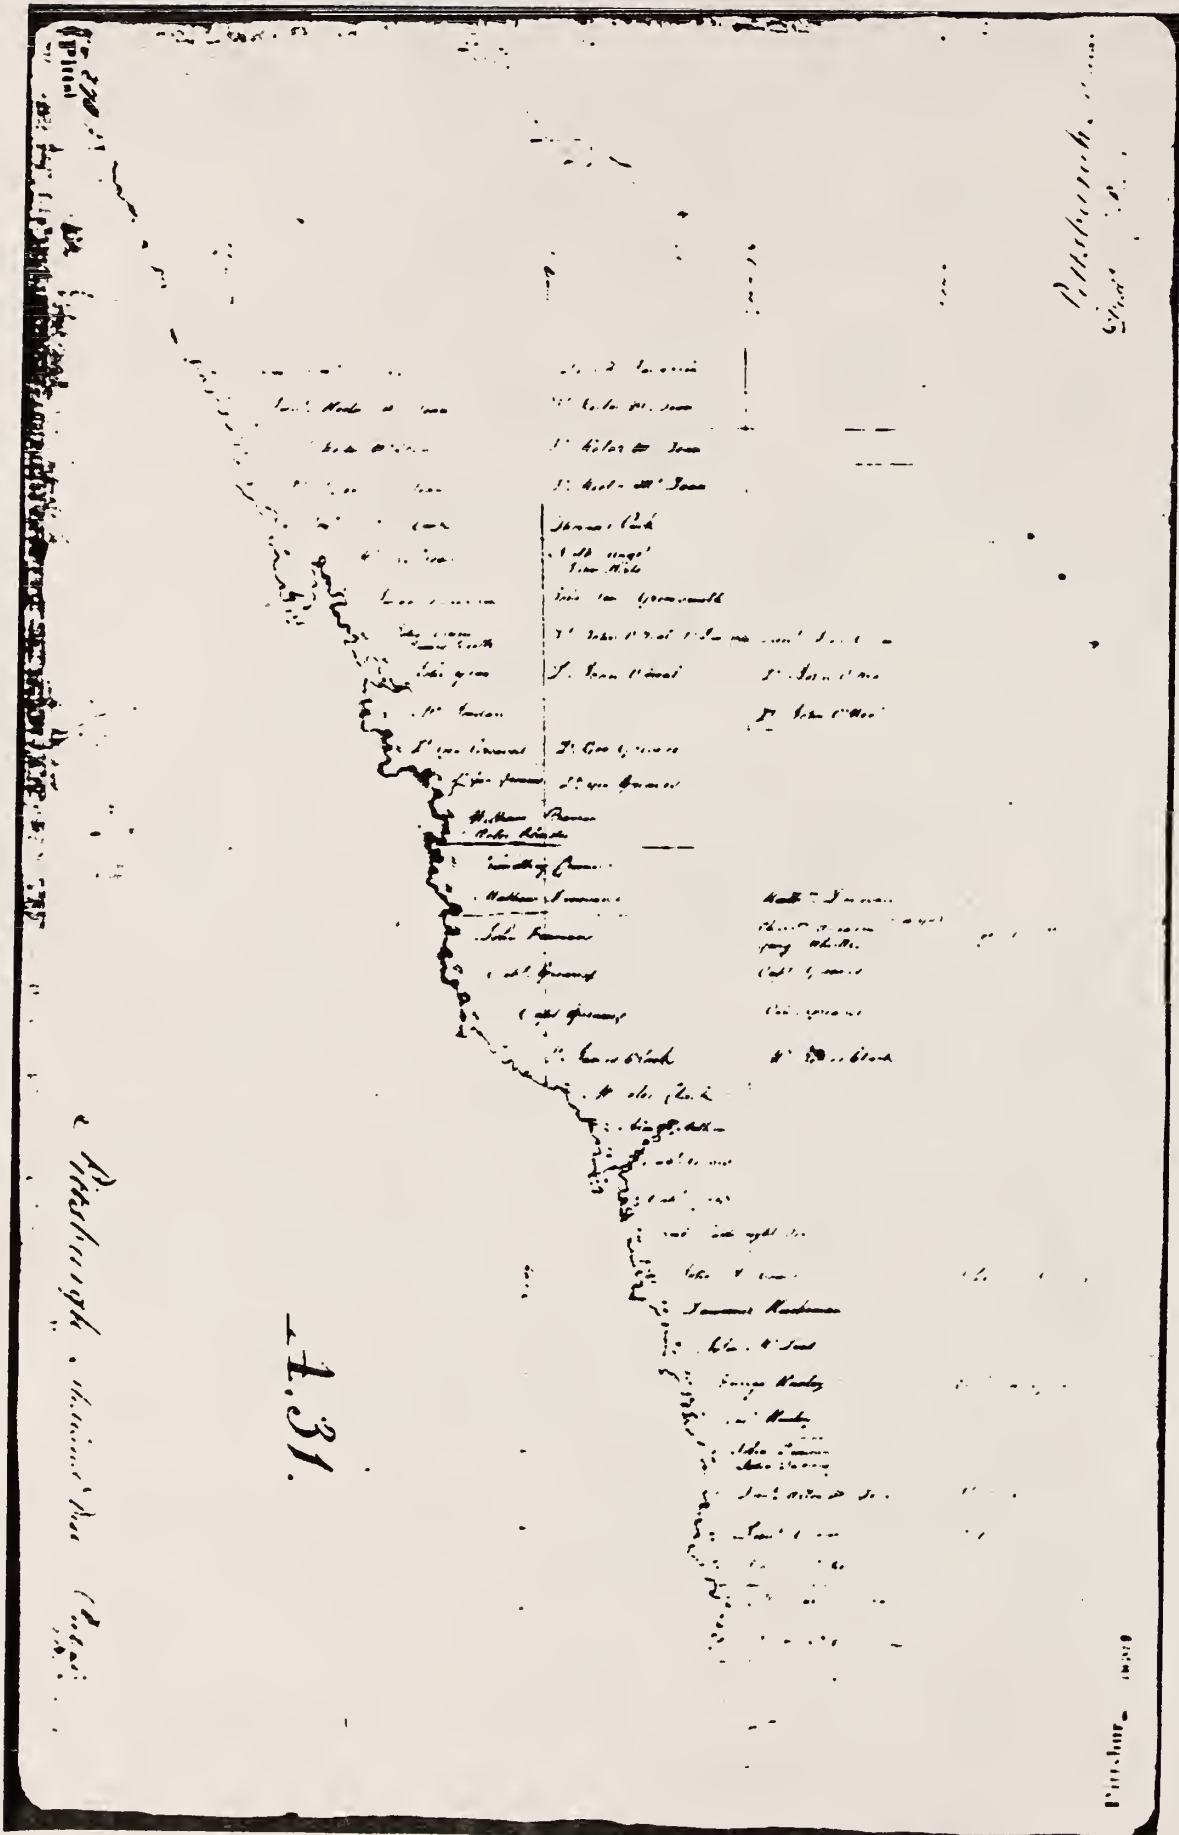

One of the family stories told how Indians used to come in the summer and camp in the cedars opposite the Baillie home. They made baskets to sell in Kingston, and sometimes the braves would come back drunk. On one occasion Ann took a squaw into the house to protect her from her husband, who, on being refused entry, buried his hatchet in the front door - the mark being visible for many years.

Well I could go on with many more stories, but I hope I have made the point that while much of what I will say today will consist of cold statistical facts, it was real people like the Ruttans, Baillies, McLeans, and Pattersons who created Pittsburgh.

My second and more serious thoughts revolved around the obvious questions: how was Pittsburgh founded? - how was the initial survey carried out? - what was the plan of settlement? - who was granted land, where, when, and how? To find the answers I carried on an intensive investigation into land records, assessment rolls, census reports, and surveyors' diaries. I propose to record my findings - to explain how Pittsburgh came to be, who was granted the land, who settled it, and how it progressed from a virgin territory in 1783 to a full-fledged rural township a century later.

The impetus to create Pittsburgh was the result of a change in the amount of land granted to Loyalists. In 1787 individual entitlements of land were more than doubled from what had been granted initially in 1784. Consequently more surveyed land was needed to satisfy the demand. In addition to increasing the depth of the first townships, new ones were created - one being Pittsburgh.

In December, 1787, John Collins, Deputy Surveyor - General, reported to Lord Dorchester, the Governor of Quebec, "that one (township) below Kingston surveyed by Mr. Aitken" had been laid out. Alexander Aitken, later in February 1788, wrote to Collins that he was still working on the survey and added "I am sorry to inform you that the land appears to be very indifferent, so much so that there is not the least probability of its being soon settled"¹ (an accurate prophecy!). Nevertheless, Collins reported on 15 May 1788 that (Pittsburgh) "is nine miles front by seven miles in depth, it consist of five concessions".² Pittsburgh Township, named after William Pitt, The Younger, the current Prime Minister of Great Britain, was ready for settlement. Yet, even before the end of 1787 land certificates were being issued. [Map One: Pittsburgh 1788].

This survey and allocation of land, however, was not the first to be carried out east of Kingston. As a result of a petition for land either side of the Great Cataraqui River in 1784 by Lieutenant Neil McLean, 84th Regiment, Commissary and Storekeeper at Cataraqui, a survey was conducted, also by Aitken, in 1785. Lots were granted by 17 August 1786 as reported in a letter of McLean to Samuel Holland.³ In fact two sets of lots were allocated, one set of twenty-four east of the Great Cataraqui from the Mill Reserve at Kingston Mills south to the Military Reserve, and one set of five lots adjoining the Military Reserve to the east. (Ever since these lots have been known as lots EGCR - East of the Great Cataraqui River, and lots AMR - Adjoining the Military Reserve). [Map Two: Lots EGCR and AMR].

This survey also delineated the Military Reserve, although it was some years before its boundaries were finally fixed. [Map Three The Military Reserve]. Eventually it was found to contain 640 acres the property of the Crown "by right of conquest," the title by which the land is held to this present day.⁴

Although I have not been able to discover a specific document transferring either the lots EGCR or AMR from Kingston Township to Pittsburgh, land certificates issued in 1789 for them were recorded under "Pittsburgh Township".⁵ Similarly the Military Reserve does not seem to have been attached formally, but by the Minutes of the Governor's Council, 14 May 1790, it was declared to be in the "Township of Pittsburgh".⁶ By 1800 Pittsburgh consisted of two parts: first, the lots EGCR and AMR, and the Military Reserve, second, five concessions based on a single front township, nine miles wide.

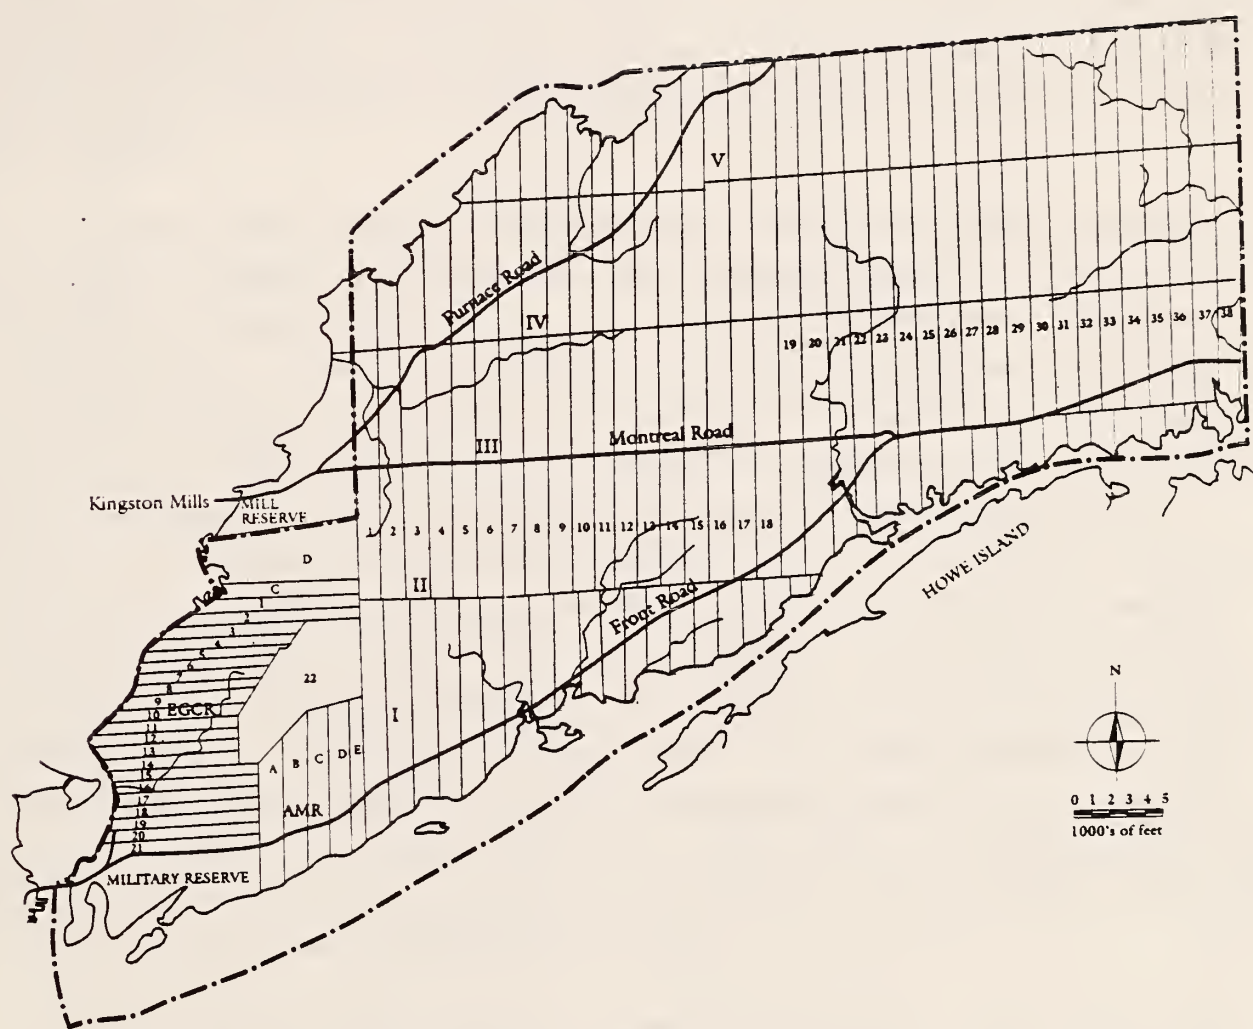

A careful look at Aitken's map of 1788 [Map One] reveals some interesting variations from a normal single front township. Because the St. Lawrence River flows in a north-easterly course Aitken did not make the first concession line his base line (as would be normal). Instead he chose a line at right angles to the western boundary, established in 1785, that would take him right across the township without running into the water. By chance this line started very close to Kingston Mills, which was convenient because that site had the only bridge across the Cataraqui River. Also by chance this line worked out to be the third concession line, or the middle one of the five established by the first survey. The concession road on the third line automatically became the Middle Road - a name it still has to-day.

Aitken then continued the survey in the normal way marking out thirty-eight 200 acre lots each nineteen chains (1254 feet wide) and 105.27 chains (6948 feet) deep in each concession. Between every six lots there was left a forty foot road allowance except none was left between lots 36 and 37 (one however, was left to the west of lot 1). Similarly a forty foot road allowance was left between each concession except none was left for the first concession. Because its line ran into the water at lot 6, no allowance was left, and lots in the first concession ran all the way from the second concession south to the river. Consequently lot 1 was very large (326 acres), but succeeding lots got smaller until lot 18 was only ninety acres. To avoid lots too small, the first concession was terminated there, and the second concession picked up the broken front from lot 19 to lot 27 when its lots, in turn, became too small. The remainder of the river front was picked up by the third concession (lot 38 ended up being 212 acres).

The lots EGCR and AMR were based on 100 acre lots, the normal width being ten chains measured across the back of the lot since they all fronted on water except the Gore (a triangular section of land taking up the remaining space)⁷ [Map Four: Pittsburgh c.1800].

By the turn of the century a township road called the Front Road existed from the future area of Barriefield to the Leeds boundary. This road had been established by the settlers who had elected by 1796 roadmasters to supervise the required statute labour.⁸ In 1799, as part of the provincial road-building scheme, a road called the Montreal Road was built from Lansdowne to Kingston via Gananoque, the third concession road in Pittsburgh, Kingston Mills (in order to cross the Cataraqui), and Montreal Street in Kingston Township.⁹ In 1800 one of the same contractors, Abel Stevens, built a road called the Furnace Road from lot 41 of the fourth concession of Kingston Township to Furnace Falls (present day Lyndhurst).¹⁰ Even at this early date the future Highways 2 and 15 were existing roads, although probably not much better than blazed trails.

By 1807 surveyed land was again in short supply, as over the years the government continued to reward Loyalists, their children, public servants, retired military personnel, and others with land grants. In fact most of the land in Pittsburgh Township back fifteen concessions had been granted to individuals, or set aside as Crown or Clergy Reserves. Consequently Reuben Sherwood, deputy surveyor, was given the task of checking Aitken's work, and continuing the survey from five to fifteen concessions.

Sherwood began on 17 February, 1807 and completed the work on 12 September. He discovered Aitken's survey to be in error in the fourth and fifth concessions; it was perhaps fortunate no settlement had taken place.¹¹ The map of Pittsburgh of 1807 looked considerably different than that of 1800; the township was now nearly twenty miles deep containing 93,085 acres. In addition there were 640 acres in the Military Reserve, 3600 acres on the lots EGCR and AMR, and 8000 acres on Howe Island, at that time part of Pittsburgh. Altogether there were just over 106,000 acres. [Map Five: Pittsburgh, 1807].

In order to finish the story of the present form of Pittsburgh we must jump ahead to 1845. That year it was decided to form a new Township - Storrington - partly from Kingston Township but mostly from Pittsburgh. All of Pittsburgh north and west of the Rideau Canal was given to Storrington. In one stroke of the pen nearly half the township disappeared.¹²

In 1849 the City of Kingston's boundaries were set and the eastern boundary was legislated to be the eastern shore of the Great Cataragui River from Point Frederick to Kingston Mills.¹³ Elsewhere the boundary is the middle of the channel of the Rideau Canal. Several times over the last century Pittsburgh has tried to change the Kingston boundary to no avail - in theory a boathouse in Barriefield is in Kingston!

In 1851 the act which established all existing counties and townships as full-fledged municipalities also created Howe Island as a separate township.¹⁴ For administrative purposes it was left as part of Pittsburgh until 1871 when it went on its own.

Finally, in 1853 the last change took place when Pittsburgh was given "all land of Kingston Township east of the Rideau Canal".¹⁵ There were only six lots, but they were crucial for road development because the important road junction of the Montreal and Perth Roads at Cunningham's Corners was located on lot 41 of the fourth concession of Kingston Township. [Map Six: Pittsburgh, 1855].

In its original form Pittsburgh consisted of 301 farm lots containing 55,450 acres theoretically, but only 49,544 actual acres. A number of lots along the Rideau canal were partly over water, natural and flooded land caused by canal construction.

In 1792 the province of Upper Canada decided to set aside one-seventh of all land to be sold as required to fund capital works (Crown Reserves), and a further one-seventh for the support of Protestant clergy (Clergy Reserves). Normally lots set aside for these purposes were scattered about a township so that the map looked like a patchwork quilt. In Pittsburgh all of the land in the first three concessions and the lots EGCR and AMR had been granted before 1792. Consequently all reserved lots had to be fitted in between the fourth and eleventh concessions. Altogether there were eighty-seven lots set aside, a total of 18,240 acres, or 33 per cent of the whole township.¹⁶

In Pittsburgh Crown reserves were divided into three categories: twenty-five lots were sold to the Canada Company, twelve lots were given for the support of King's College, and fourteen lots were sold directly to individuals, including the four lots making up the Mill

Reserve at Kingston Mills, and a small lot of sixty acres on the Military Reserve (Cartwright's Point).¹⁷

The Canada Company was a British company, founded in 1824, that bought 1,100,000 acres of Crown land in Upper Canada for 4s4d, Halifax currency, an acre. In Pittsburgh it sold the land, on average, for 14s10d, a profit of 10s6d an acre (242 per cent).

King's College, chartered in 1827, was a state funded Church of England university. It was not opened because of controversy over its religious bias. The non-denominational forces won the battle and the funds went to the new-established University of Toronto. Of the 2400 acres allocated in Pittsburgh to King's College, 1557½ were sold to the Board of Ordnance for the Rideau Canal at an average price of 13s1½d per acre.¹⁸

The Clergy Reserves consisted of thirty-six lots containing 7,140 acres. While the price of the lots was not stated in the land records, provincial records reported the average provincial price to be 13s4½d.¹⁹ Generally speaking all Crown land sold, on average, for 13s9d an acre in Pittsburgh. This average was somewhat lower than the average sale price (first sale) of all land in the township (20s10d) because of higher prices paid for land in the first three concessions, and lots EGCR and AMR.

Overall in Pittsburgh 385 patents (deeds) were issued for the original 301 lots. One hundred went to those who received their land as a gift from the Crown. These individuals, as best as can be determined, were: Loyalists, their wives, sons or daughters, 79; retired military personnel, 10; former government employees, 4; and others, 7. Of the hundred less than twenty ever settled on their land. Thirty-one of them received 400 or more acres, the most going to Lieutenant Hector McLean - 2335 acres. Altogether this group received 23,794 acres, an average, 750 acres each. The remaining sixty-nine grantees each received an average of 225 acres out of a total of 12,472 acres. The Crown land that was sold was purchased in 172 transactions, the average being one hundred acres. In summary in Pittsburgh thirty-one individuals received gratis 44 per cent of the land, sixty-nine got 23 per cent, while the Crown retained 33 pe cent, all of which was sold, with the exception of the Military Reserve.²⁰

Two of the original lots EGCR were so large they were sub-divided into sizeable farms quite early in the history of the township. One was lot D, 500 acres, which was split into the north half and south half, and the other was the Gore, lot 22, 776 acres, which was sub-divided into nine farms.

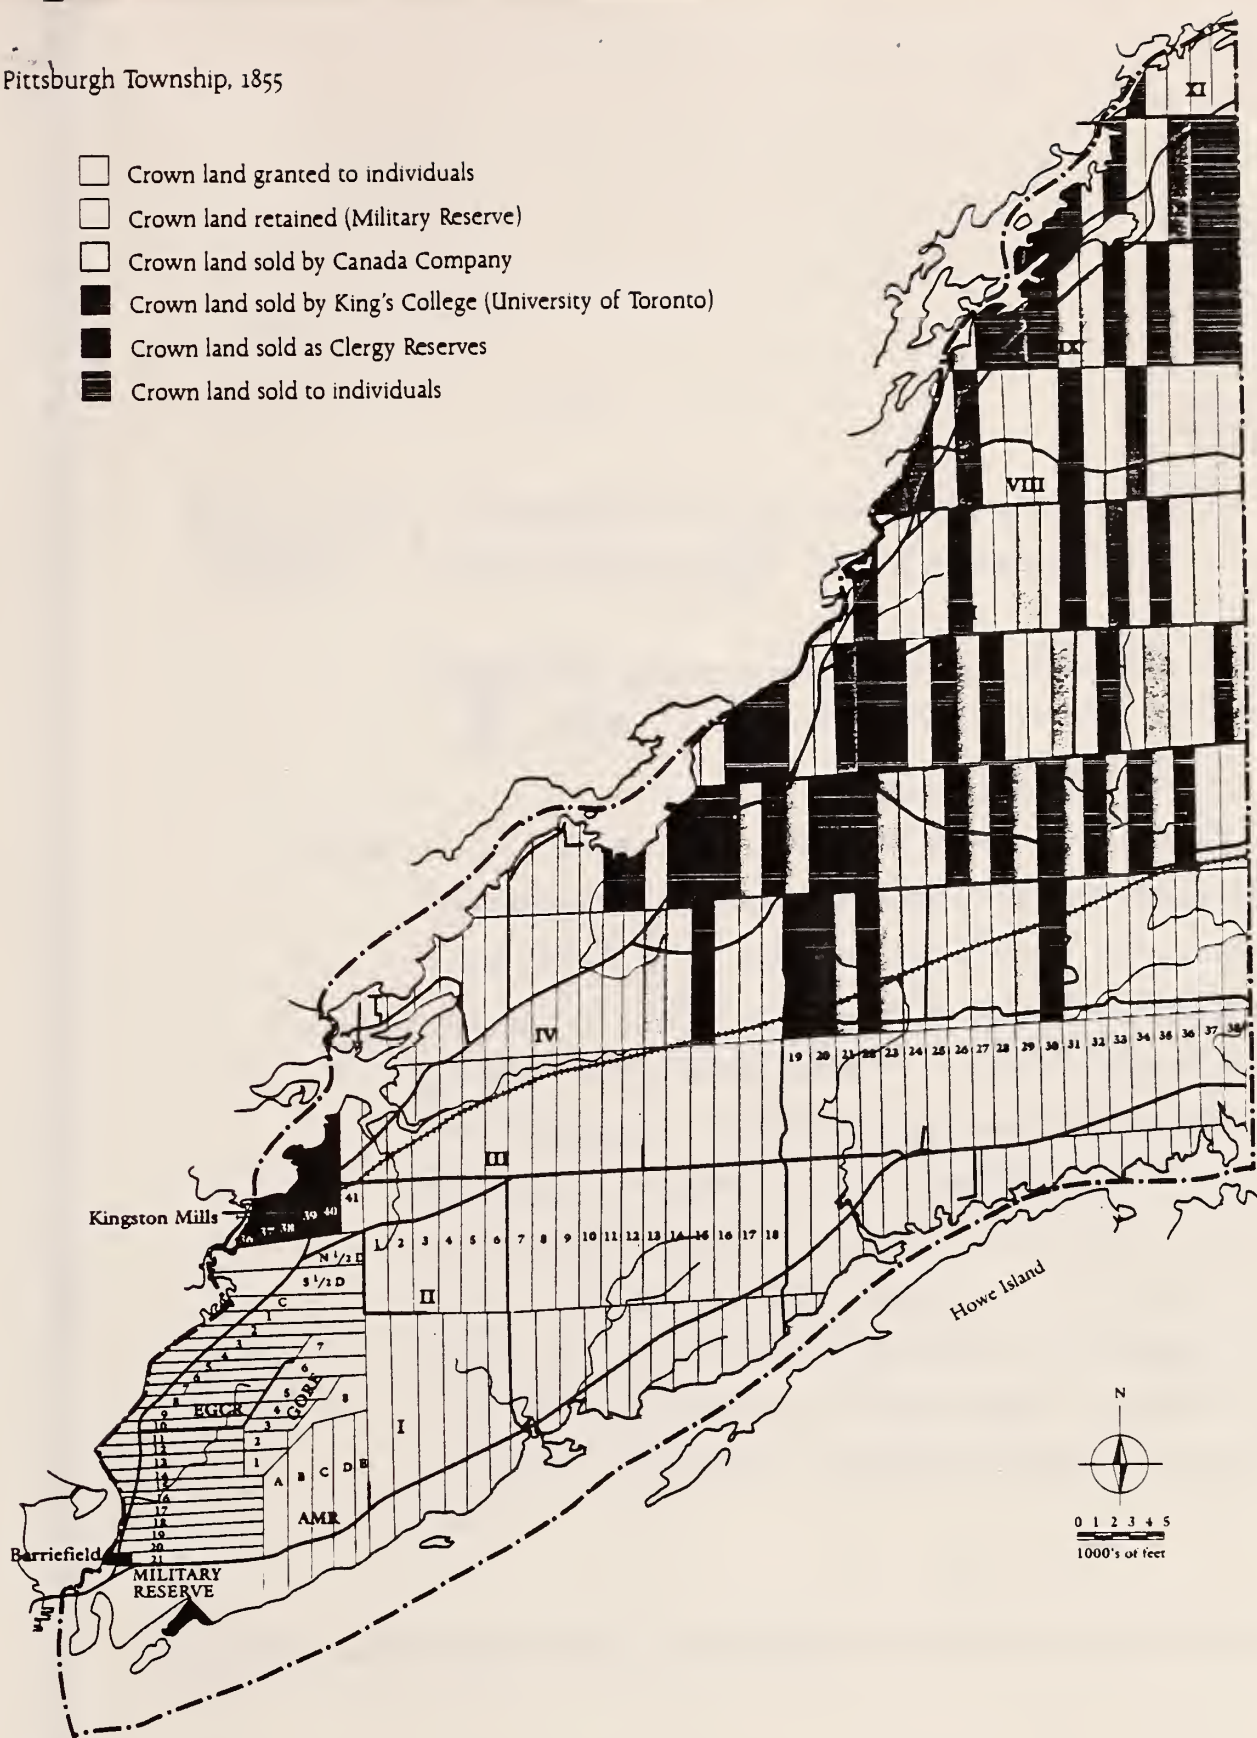

One other lot was partially sub-divided into town lots. The western part of lot 21 EGCR was broken up in 1814 by the Honourable Richard Cartwright into two acre lots later deeded as house lots of four-fifths of an acre each, and two industrial lots - one of six acres and one of two. This site became Barriefield.²¹

Although by the War of 1812-1814 88 per cent of all the land, other than Crown land, had been patented, very little of it had been settled. By the date of the first census, 1821, Pittsburgh, all 106,000 acres, had a population of only 518 - 170 men, 102 women, and 246 children.²² The first assessment of 1822 showed only 8500 acres assessed of which only 1260 were cultivated. Only sixty-three houses were taxable (round log houses were exempt). There were only five houses of two stories or more - remarkably three still stand - Barriefield House, Sopwell Hall, and Glen Logie. In the whole of the township there were only sixty-four horses, thirty-six oxen, 115 milk cows and twenty-eight horned (beef) cattle. The total assessment was £7,458 and with taxes 1d per pound (mill rate of only 4.17) the tax base was only £31 1s6d - the annual wage of a labourer. Obviously Pittsburgh was a big empty space with few people and not much activity. Only 11 per cent of the lots were even occupied, and none beyond the third concession.²³

With the rise in immigration, mostly from the British Isles, in the 1820's, continuing through the 'thirties' and reaching a flood in the 1840's, Pittsburgh took on the appearance of a real township with schools, churches, better roads, even its own militia regiment. To observe the change in the township is fascinating.

Matthew Donovan

Land certificate issued to Matthew Donovan, schoolmaster, for lot 15 in the 1st and 2nd concessions (OA)

During the decade of the 1820's the population rose by 71 per cent and continued to grow in the thirties by 85 per cent. In fact during the 1830's as much settlement took place as in the four previous decades. Although the numbers of everything assessed increased the individual assessment per capita fell from £14 8s in 1822 to £10 14s in 1838, indicating a pioneering society with little evidence of personal wealth.²⁴

The first extant township assessment roll is that for 1844. By this time the population had reached 2,710, and the amount of assessed land was 37 per cent of the total acreage. Yet only 18 per cent of the land was cultivated. The 1840's were the period of the greatest growth. Twenty-nine percent of the lots were settled during this period. Even so one-quarter of Pittsburgh was settled after 1850, although many of the lots were fragmentary ones along the Rideau.

By the time of the census of 1861 all of the boundary changes had taken place, although Howe Island was still included in the total. Pittsburgh reached its highest population then, 4,394, a record that was to stand until 1951 when the population on the Military Reserve began to be included. By 1891 the population stabilized at slightly over 2,000 and remained there for sixty years.²⁵ By that time land clearing and settlement were complete. Cultivated land reached a maximum of 37,000 acres, or 75 per cent of the whole. Township assessment levelled off at $800,000. The tax rate had risen slowly during the century to twelve mills bringing in about $10,000 a year (not counting individual school section levies amounting to an additional $7,000).²⁶

At this point it is possible to review the whole settlement picture. Although two-thirds of the township was given to 100 grantees, in the main Loyalists, they were not the real creators of Pittsburgh. Probably no more than twenty of the original grantees settled in any permanent way, and they, by and large, were soldiers rather than officers. Concentrated mostly in the first three concessions and the lots EGCR and AMR the early pioneers occupied only twenty-three lots by 1820. Pittsburgh was settled in a real way during the period of 1820-60 when 78 per cent of the township was occu pied, primarily by Protestant Irish. When the population had stabilized by the census of 1881, 90 per cent gave the British Isles as their ethnic origin: England 18 per cent, Scotland 9 per cent, and Ireland 64 per cent. Only 7 per cent gave Ontario as their place of origin reflecting the small size of the Loyalist element. The heavy Irish element was also reflected in religious affiliation; the population was divided nearly into four equal parts: Roman Catholic, Church of England, Church of Scotland/Presbyterian, and Methodist.²⁷ The Irish Protestant majority gave rise to three Orange Lodges, two of which still survive. It is not surprising that Pittsburgh was represented in the House of Commons by a Conservative member for 104 out of the last 121 years, and in the Legislature in Toronto by a Conservative for 105 out of the first 108 years (1867-1975).²⁸

In terms of formation Pittsburgh was among the second tier of Loyalist townships; in terms of real settlement Pittsburgh was late. The establishment of schools and churches, the building of roads, and the growth of municipal institutions all had to wait until the mid-nineteenth century. That is another story.

RELATING TO THE

THOS. W. CASEY.

Early Days of this Province.

NEWBURGH FORTY TWO YEARS AGO.

We are indebted to the kindness of Charles Riley, Esq., of Camden East, County Commissioner, for some interesting numbers of the Newburgh "Index" of 1858,—a paper at one time well known and widely circulated in Addington county, but which ceased publication years ago. The Index was first issued in 1852, we believe, by Isaac Brook Aylsworth, then a young printer, now the Rev. Dr. I. B. Aylsworth, ex-President of the London Methodist Conference. It changed hands several times during its career and editors quite as frequently. Among those who were its contributing editors at various times were the late Dr. Allan Ruttan, then a practicing physician in Newburgh; the late David Beach, then Principal of the Newburgh Academy; and C. V. Price, then a young man, a native of that locality and now the somewhat venerable Judge Price, of Kingston, so well known throughout these counties.

At the time the four copies now before us were issued Messrs. Allen Caton and C. V. Price were the publishers. Mr. Caton was a native of Richmond, near Napanee, a son of the late Squire Archibald Caton, yet so well remembered by many of the old readers of THE BEAVER. Mr. Price was a brother-in-law of Mr. A. Caton; he had just then finished his schooling at the Newburgh Academy, where he was considered a promising student. Later on he retired from the editorial chair and studied law in Kingston, where he enjoyed an extensive and lucrative practice, till he was appointed County Judge by the Mackenzie Government, sometime in the seventies. Judging by the vigor of his editorials in the numbers before us, and what we remember of his force as a political platform speaker before he assumed the quiet position as a County Judge, we are inclined to think the country lost one of its vigorous politicians by that appointment.

SOME OF THE BUSINESS ADVERTISEMENTS.

Newburgh was a small and very thriving and ambitious village in 1858, and judging by the number of business advertisements in the columns of the Index at that time, it must have had within its borders a considerable number of very enterprising business men, all or nearly all of whom have now passed off the stage of action. There were first the business cards of Allen Caton, of "the Old Stone Shanty," a very enterprising druggist, book seller, publisher, insurance agent, and Secretary of the Board of Public Instruction for Frontenac, Lennox and Addington; to which he also added some successful farming. Mr. Caton, after a successful business career of years in Newburgh, died in that town and lies buried in the cemetery near by.

Then comes the card of Allan Ruttan, M. D., Coroner for the United Counties of Frontenac, Lennox and Addington. After graduating with honors from McGill University, Montreal, the Doctor first located in Newburgh and soon obtained a good country practice. Newburgh was then ambitious to become the county town of Lennox and Addington and was then fully equal to Napanee in intelligence, population and business enterprise. The Grand Trunk railway, built a few years later, and being latated through Napanee, appeared to turn the scale in the latter's favor. The Doctor being convinced the village would never attain much more in population or importance, changed his location to Napanee, with a short interval at Picton, and here the balance of his useful days was spent.

John King was then a resident of Newburgh and advertised as an "auctioneer and general commission agent, township of Camden." He was a hotel keeper there at one time, and also moved to Napanee, where he was in business here for years. Later on he received a government appointment in the Customs, and lived and died at Windsor, we believe.

Luke Carscallen also advertised as an auctioneer and general commission agent. He was a well known citizen of the village, and lived and died there.

Richard Rook, then a well known citizen, advertised as a dealer and repairer of watches, clocks and musical instruments. Lame from his childhood and dependent on a large Newfoundland dog to draw him from place to place on his small low cart, he managed to carry on a real profitable trade and provided comfortably for himself and family.

Owen S. Roblin, a native of Adolphus town, advertised there was "nothing like harness" and carried on that business for years. Later on he moved to Syracuse, N.Y., where he lived and died.

E. A. Lanfear, another of the same craft, advertised "nothing like good harness," which was, of course, intended to have its significance. He lived and died in Newburgh.

The Wells Brothers, John C. and Allen C., were also in the harness, saddle and trunk business and advertised as good an article in the line of business as can be obtained for the same money. They are of the few advertisers who are yet living,—the former now in business with his son at Tamworth, and the latter a large and successful farmer at Chilliwack, British Columbia.

Simon Haines, was then an axe manufacturer and advertised that business. It may as well be said here that Newburgh was once noted for its axe making and supplied a large section of the country with an excellent class of implements in that line. Mr. Haines was one of the patriotic militia volunteers during the Canadian rebellion of 1837-8, doing active service. He was at the celebrated battle at the Windmill, Prescott, and witnessed the arrest of the unfortunate Von Sholts, who was hanged at Kingston, for his share in the American invasion. Mr. Haines lived and died in Newburgh.

Henry Finkle then advertised his stage line, leaving Centreville every morning for Napanee, via Clark's Mills and connecting with the Grand Trunk here. Mr. Finkle was a successful stage owner and carriage builder, and since his death the business has been well sustained by his son.

Miles Caton and Cephas H. Miller were then, and for many years after, successful and well known grocers and dry goods merchants. Both died at Newburgh, highly respected men.

A number of outside business men were also among the Index advertisers, including James Hawley, Temperance house, Centreville; B. W. Day, dentist, Kingston, now county registrar of Hastings; Titus F. Brown, watches and jewelry, Napanee; R. S. Henderson, law office, Napanee; S. T. and L. Clements, dentists, Kingston; A. W. Murdoch, music teacher, Kingston; John Carruthers & Co., wholesale grocers, Kingston, and others, nearly all of whom are yet remembered by our older readers.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL ELECTIONS.

It was in 1858 that the first elections were held for the old Legislative Council of the then Parliament of Canada. The elective system that was then first tried remained in force until Confederation in 1867. The counties were grouped together into electoral divisions for this purpose. In North Hastings and Peterboro counties constituted Trent Division and Edmund Munney, of Belleville, was elected, defeating Thomas Shortt, of Kingston. Frontenac and the city of Kingston constituted Cataraqui Division and Alexander Campbell, Q.C., was first elected. The other candidates were Overton S. Gildersleve and Thomas Kirkpatrick, Q.C., all of Kingston. Their cards to the electors all appear in the copies of The Index now before us, and some reports of the meetings they held during that campaign.

Senator Campbell was re-elected at the next term then defeating B. M. Britton, Q.C., now the M.P. for Kingston. He was appointed to the Dominion Senate at the time of Confederation and took a prominent part in public affairs for years. He had been a law partner and intimate personal friend of Sir John Macdonald and, later on, became a member of the Tache-Macdonald Government, holding the position of Postmaster General, and afterwards Minister of the Interior. Still later on he was appointed Lieutenant Governor of Ontario in 1887 and died in Government House, Toronto, in 1892.

Thomas Kirkpatrick was also a distinguished and much respected Kingston lawyer and the father of the late ex-Lieut. Governor Sir George F. Kirkpatrick, who succeeded Sir A. Campbell as Governor of this Province.

Overton Gildersleve is the only one of the three now living. He was also a resident of Kingston and was long a prominent man in the ranks of the Liberal party there, being once the candidate of the party in opposition to Sir John Macdonald in 1863, and once later on, for the Provincial Legislature in opposition to James Metcalf, we believe; in both cases being defeated.

The election now being referred to took place in October, 1858, and resulted in a large majority for Mr. Campbell.

POLITICAL ISSUES AT THAT TIME.

That our readers may see what different issues divided politicians forty odd years ago from to-day we will make reference to some of the aspects of that Legislative Council election as reported in The Index then. One of the "burning questions" just then was the celebrated "Double Shuffle" of that very year, in connection with the retirement of the Tache-Macdonald government, the formation of the Brown-Dorion government, its immediate defeat in both Houses, the refusal of Governor Sir Edmund Head to consent to a new election at that time and the re-establishment of the old government, each member accepting some other office from that he held before the resignation and thus avoiding the legal necessity of again going back to their constituents. This was George Brown strongly denominated at the time as a mere legal trick and characterised it as the "Double Shuffle." He appealed to the courts against the legality of that "shuffle" but was defeated in the matter.

It seems that Mr. Campbell, though a very decided Conservative, and a friend of Sir John came out in strong denunciation of that act. One of his election fly sheets issued a day or two previous to the voting is quoted in The Index and had this stirring appeal: "Let every opponent of Ministerial chicanery vote early for Campbell and thus record his opposition to the men who have ruined the credit of the country." It was intimated that the force of public opinion impelled him to take that stand.

The Index remarked that, "Mr. Kirkpatrick never confessed himself a Ministerial candidate, neither would he declare himself openly an oppositionist." He was always known as a very decided Conservative, however.

The Index of September 29, 1858, devoted a good deal of space to a report of a meeting held in Hope's hall, Newburgh, by Mr. Gildersleve, at which he went pretty fully over the issues of the campaign. The late Cephas H. Miller occupied the chair. In regard to the double shuffle he styled it a "legal stratagem," but the Index declared that the word "legal" should not be used at all and added, "We consider it a piece of illegal jugglery, unconstitutional usurpation of office." That single sentence will indicate its decided position then and the force of its language. Mr. Gildersleve was reported to have declared his decided opposition to the then Cartier-Macdonald government; his determined opposition to the Hudson's Bay Company, which then held the territory which now constitutes Manitoba and the N. W. territories; his strong support of the principle of Representation by Population, which was then a burning issue with the Reformers of Upper Canada; his opposition to a Separate school law, which was then also an exciting question; and his earnest advocacy of a protective duty.

The Index intimated that the policy of protection was not, however, the settled policy of the Reform party, as the Globe and Mr. Cayley were favorable to free trade. It intimated, however, that Messrs. Campbell and Gildersleve both favored protection.

The question of prohibition was also then before the people and the Index was decidedly favorable to it. Mr. Gildersleve was reputed to have said that he believed that "the revenue as well as community would be benefited by a prohibition law, and he would give it his cordial support."

SOME LOCAL ITEMS.

There is a report of the proceedings of the Camden township council, which at that time also included the now Village of Newburgh. The members of the Council in 1858 appear to have been Augustus Hooper, Samuel Clark, David B. Stickney, James Lapum and Charles Warner. They are all well remembered by our older readers as very prominent and spirited business men, representing the various sections of the large township. They have all passed away, however.

There is the announcement also of the dedication of a new Methodist Episcopal church near Colebrook, on the Camden circuit, for Thursday, Oct. 21, 1858, with preaching services by Revs. James Gardner, G. Jones and John F. Wilson,—men still well remembered throughout these counties.

There is also a report of the meeting of the directors of the Camden township Agricultural Society, held in Hope's hall, August 21st, 1858. Those attending were Augustus Hooper, president; John B. Aylesworth, secretary; Cephas H. Miller, James N. Lapum, Samuel Clark, Thomas Price, E. Armstrong, Thomas Scott and J. Clancy. It was decided to hold the exhibition that year on Tuesday, 12th Oct., and a premium list of 200 prizes was agreed upon. The only survivor of that once well known group of men, so far as we know, is our now venerable friend, Mr. John Bell Aylesworth, still the secretary of the Association. May he long continue to occupy that position!

There is also a report of the Adding-ton County Agricultural Society, held that year in Bath on Thursday, Oct. 7th. Among the leading prize winners were a number of excellent and well known farmers in this county at that time: William H. Gordanier, Peter R. Davy, M. B. Lasher, S. K. Miller, N. A. Briscoe, Seth Irish, Frederick Kaylor, Tillotson Irish, Thomas Price, Coleman Bristol, John Boyce, Elijah Switzer, Calvin W. Miller, Job Aylsworth, D. Purdy, Richard Williams, Mitchell Neville, John Clancy, Hazard W. Purdy, John Sharp, James Foster, John Black, Charles Lloyd, Ezra D. Priest and many others, all or nearly all of whom have long since passed over to the great majority; but, in many cases, their sons and daughters are well representing them, among our intelligent and enterprising citizens of to-day. What changes forty years bring about in the affairs of any locality! T. W. Q.
